HOLDS SEWAGE EFFICIENCY 'SACRIFICED'

Superintendent Tells Dairymen Plant Built to Maintain Low Operating Cost.

CAN'T HANDLE SOME TYPES

Dairies Agree to Halt Dumping of Milk Wastes, Eliminating One of 'Bugs' in System.

Efficiency in operation has been sacrificed at Mansfield's sewage treatment plant in order to maintain low operating costs, J. R. Turner, superintendent of the plant admitted to dairy operators who met last night to discuss the dumping of milk wastes into the city's sewer system.

Turner said that the city's $300,000 treatment plant was not designed to handle "certain types of sewage."

Lacks Equipment.

He told the dairymen that the request for the removal of the milk wastes from the sewers had been made because the plant lacked the mechanical equipment to fully treat "shock loads."

The dairy operators however agreed to halt the dumping of skimmed milk into the sewers if it would help to step up the efficiency of the plant. They said they had already made arrangements to dispose of the milk through other outlets.

Treated With Oxygen.

He explained that the sewage was treated with an oxygen process and that the plant was now operating with the full air capacity available from compressors installed when the plant was built a year and a half ago.

The milk wastes could be treated if sufficient air was available, he added, but additional compressors would have to be installed and would increase the operating costs.

It was pointed out that the Mansfield plant had .3 cubic foot of air available per gallon of sewage as compared with other cities operating similar plants with maximums up to 1½ cubic foot per gallon.

Turner said that with the removal of the milk from the sewers he could not be sure that all the "bugs" in the operation would be eliminated.

He said he was not sure that milk alone was responsible for the condition since his tests had been made only on the sewer system south of Park avenue west while numerous industrial concerns north of Park avenue were connected to another line.

SWING CRANK

Trio Charged With Breaking Man's Jaw, Jailed.

Three Mansfield brothers were held in the county jail today on assault and battery charges filed by Boyd Bossler, Woodville road, who said they broke his jaw with an automobile crank during an altercation yesterday afternoon at the Cates Auto Wrecking company.

The brothers, who are colored, are Leroy Ray, 22, Robert Ray, 26, and Luther Ray, 23, of Oakenwald avenue. Arrested at their home by Deputy Sheriffs Glenn Freeman and J. R. Hetler, they were to be arraigned this afternoon in municipal court.

Officers said Bossler's jaw was fractured on both sides. He was taken to General hospital. The brothers are alleged to have attacked Bossler following an argument over towing his automobile to get it started.

STATE WITNESS

Mansfield Officer Testifies At Conn Murder Trial.

E. C. Fuller, Mansfield police identification expert, testified for the state yesterday at Cadiz, O., in the murder trial of Bernard Masulla, 22, of Pittsburgh, accused as the "trigger man" in the slaying of state highway patrolman George Conn a year ago.

Fuller and Fred W. Teaff of Steubenville, fingerprint experts, said that a print on a door handle of Conn's patrol car had four identical characteristics with Masulla's print from the corresponding finger.

Hitler Demands Air Supremacy Over Great Britain

(By International News Service)

LONDON—A sensational proposal whereby Britain should renounce the principle of aerial parity with Germany has been made by Chancellor Hitler, International News Service learned today.

Under terms of the suggestion, London would agree to restrict the British home air force to 35 per cent of the German air force.

The proposal, it was revealed, was made informally through diplomatic channels as part of the general discussions for a western European peace pact.

* * *

If Britain should agree to the suggestion, it was stated, Hitler would be prepared to guarantee the territorial integrity of the British Empire and of France.

The German argument for aerial superiority over Britain, as put forward to London, in effect is as follows:

Germany is far more vulnerable to aerial attack than England because of her geographical position and the fact that the reich is encircled by countries from which air attacks could quickly be launched at the heart of Germany.

Therefore, it is claimed by Berlin, Germany needs a greater air force than Britain and this "necessary superiority" should not be regarded as a potential menace to Britain.

* * *

The German suggestion was put forward in view of these circumstances and as a means whereby Britain could reciprocate for the "great concession" made to Britain in the naval field, in which Germany agreed to restrict her navy to 35 per cent of the British fleet.

In making the request, it was learned, Hitler pointed out that he agreed to the naval restriction despite his contention that Germany could easily build a navy 70 per cent of the size of Britain's.

The reich, however, now "suggests" that Britain consider a similar gesture to Germany in the aerial field. The reich has informed Britain, it was learned, that Hitler feels such a gesture would pave the way for a permanent era of peace in western Europe.

* * *

In addition, Germany claimed, it would eliminate all danger of a conflict of interests between Germany, Britain and France.

The suggestion has been received coldly in British quarters, where it was doubted that parliament would ever agree to give Germany superiority in a weapon which is now regarded as representing the reich's chief menace to this country.

The proposal, however, is expected to be considered at next week's cabinet meeting and it is considered possible that Britain might be willing to grant Germany a slight aerial superiority.

This would be done, however, only under the provision that the combined British and French air forces remained overwhelmingly superior to the German force and that Hitler guaranteed the peace of western Europe and the integrity of the British Empire.

PLAN PROGRAM OF SPEED

Roosevelt to Delay Budget Study Until New Defense Plan's Completed.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt today indicated that the United States will be forced to plunge immediately into a rearmament program on a scale never before contemplated in peacetime.

This drastic step has been necessitated, the president told his press conference, by recent international developments which have bred foreign danger to the nation's security.

Grave Developments.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that grave international developments require that the United States make a complete re-study of its entire national defense needs. Until this study can be made, he said, all comment on next year's budget must be deferred.

He revealed that such a re-study of national defense, taking up not only the question of navy, army and air corps needs, but the vital subject of industrial supply of munitions and arms on a mass production scale, is now under way and he expects it to be completed by December.

It was indicated that when congress convenes the president's first message will deal with this new problem of national defense and he probably will call on congress for national defense expenditures far exceeding the record expenditures of the past three or four years.

The national defense study, the president said, is being made by a joint board of civilian and army and navy experts. He said these authorities are carefully checking up on new elements in international relations that have been coming up during the past few years.

One of the most important problems which must be dealt with, he said, is means by which America's industries can be put on a mass production basis for every armament need, particularly airplanes, at a moment's notice.

Mass Output Needed.

The president remarked that there are many things about mass production of armaments that this country does not know, and which requires the deepest study. He said that airplanes and every type of equipment for national defense must now be standardized.

The president said he was un-

TORTURE OHIO GIRL, 18, TOSS HER IN DITCH

Gunmen Assault Victim, Daub Obscene Words on Her Body With Red Paint.

(By Associated Press)

FINDLAY—Two men who assaulted 18-year-old Betty Gazarek, daubed obscene words on her body with red paint the girl had bought for her father, and then dumped her into a roadside ditch were hunted in northwest Ohio today.

Sheriff Lyle Harvitt said the girl was taken to a Findlay hospital last night after a motorist discovered her in a ditch near North Baltimore, a community near here where the girl lived with her parents. Most of her clothing had been ripped from her body.

Get Sketchy Story.

Sheriff Lyle said that from a few remarks the girl had made and by talking with her father, Steve Gazarek, he had been able to patch together a fairly complete story of what occurred. This was the account the sheriff related:

"While her father waited in his automobile, Betty went to a store Wednesday night to buy red paint and a brush. As she was leaving two men pushed her into an automobile and drove away.

"They drove all Wednesday night and on Thursday stopped at some barn or outbuilding. The men took her clothing from her, assaulted her and painted vile words on her body with her own paint and brush.

Shoved From Auto.

"Thursday night they drove again and shoved her from the automobile into a ditch."

Gazarek had notified authorities when his daughter failed to return, but they were unable to locate the girl, who was graduated last spring from the North Baltimore high school.

Her condition was described as not serious.

RECALLS 8,000

Chrysler to Bring Employment in Plants to 48,000.

DETROIT—(AP)—The Chrysler corporation has settled one labor dispute by deciding to recall an additional 8,000 workers in domestic plants next week.

Herman L. Weckler, Chrysler vice president in charge of operations, announced the plan to increase the number of active workers to 48,000 late yesterday after a conference with representatives of the United Automobile Workers.

He said 1,600 men would be called back at the Plymouth division plant here where union employes refused to work last Friday, insisting upon a 32-hour week to give employment to a larger number of persons.

Life Begins at Noon for No. 1 Deb

Newest Glamour Girl of Gotham Society Makes Debut In 2 Months.

By JOAN DURHAM
(Associated Press Writer)

NEW YORK — They've picked the No. 1 glamour girl of New York's debutante season already.

Of course raven-haired Brenda Diana Duff Frazier won't have her debut for two full months yet, but she gets around every night—and neither the columnist nor the stag lines await debuts to award popularity prizes.

Well, she does have everything—or nearly everything. Looks... brains...poise...money. At seventeen, her lustrous hair, which she won't brush up from its long flowing bob, her ivory skin, aristocratically arched eyebrows and carelessly graceful walk would make a professional model envious.

That's the way the columnists see her—at night clubs and theaters. I went calling on Brenda at her home to see what sort of a girl a top notch New York debutante really is.

She is amazingly human and friendly.

* * *

Brenda and her mother, Mrs. Frederic N. Watriss, live in a luxurious, but home-like double-suite in "Carlton House," at the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

Calling on them is pleasant and stimulating, although Mrs. Watriss isn't fond of letting Brenda be exhibit A for how-the-other-half-lives excursions.

Her mother, a tall thinnish woman with a brisk walk and a quick, direct way of talking, comes in from her adjoining living room and says pleasantly but earnestly:

"There's just one thing I hope you'll do. And that is—leave out the money part." As her mother departs, Brenda explains—

"It's so cheapening—saying I'm the richest debutante and all of that. Besides, it isn't true. I don't know where they get those figures."

T. B. LEVY DRIVE GAINS IMPETUS

Medical Society Endorses Half Mill Proposal to Care for County Patients.

The campaign for the proposed half-mill levy for care of tuberculosis patients, which will be submitted by county commissioners to voters at the Nov. 8 election, gained impetus today with the endorsement of the Richland County Medical society.

Health officials, Medical society representatives and county commissioners, meeting yesterday in the office of Dr. Roy C. Rehder, health commissioner, outlined plans for the campaign. Dr. F. J. Heringhaus, president of the Richland County Tuberculosis association, presided.

The proposed levy would be in effect for a period of five years and would provide funds for the care of tuberculosis patients. Money remaining in the fund at the end of each year would be placed in a sinking fund for a permanent program in the future, Dr. Heringhaus said. The levy will require only a majority vote to pass, County Prosecutor Glenn Marriott said.

At the present time county commissioners are providing money out of the general operating fund. The cost of hospitalizing patients in the last few years has far exceeded the amount of money appropriated and this fund was exhausted some time ago, they said, so that the 23 patients in hospitals outside the county are left with no means of paying their bills.

The levy would raise about $45,000, according to Commissioner C. L. Mitchell.

The sheriff said Bryant told him he meant only to scare the boys.

UNEARTH BODY

Probers Find Remains of Woman in Texas Mystery.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—(AP)—A woman's decomposed body, shoveled from a sandy grave near Ingleside, added a second chapter today to the story of the disappearance of five feminine employes of the suicide Joe D. Ball, Elmendorf tavern owner.

Three other women still were unaccounted for.

The body, believed that of Minnie Gotthardt, was found yesterday on the beach under 12 feet of sand.

Ranger Capt. Lee Miller filed a murder charge against Clifton Wheeler, colored handyman at the tavern where Ball shot himself while being questioned by deputy sheriffs. Wheeler had told officers he saw Ball shoot and kill Minnie Gotthardt 18 months ago.

CHICAGO — (AP) — The crowd laughed when Louis Stein started eating.

They didn't know he was that hungry.

Stein did it in 25 minutes. Roth had bet him he couldn't do it in two hours.

G. O. P. PREPARES FOR FINAL DRIVE

Precinct Workers Will Dine Tonight, Hear Supreme Court Judge.

Richland county Republican precinct workers will organize for the final drive for votes at the Nov. 8 election at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. today in the party's campaign headquarters on North Main street.

Principal speaker at the session will be Judge Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert, members of the Ohio Supreme court since 1915 and a candidate for re-election.

Other county and district candidates were expected to speak briefly, but Ralph Hardy, county Republican executive chairman, said it was still indefinite today who all the speakers would be.

County Republicans, who have staged one major rally, will bring Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, candidate for U. S. senator, to the city for a talk at campaign headquarters next Wednesday night. Taft will speak here early in the evening before going to Ashland for a rally.

COUNTY JOINS STATE SCHOOL FUND SEARCH

Rural Richland Districts Send Envoys to Help Solve Problem.

In a move to prevent the closing of 75 per cent of Ohio's schools because of a lack of funds, school superintendents and board of education members in the Richland county area convened in Columbus today to discuss a program for financing the schools.

While the Mansfield schools were not represented due to the absence of Supt. W. L. Miller and H. W. Arlin, school board president, who are in Chicago, school officials from a number of other districts near the city were at the session.

Special Session.

A special school finance session for superintendents is scheduled for Saturday morning in Columbus, International News Service dispatches said. The candidates for governor, John W. Bricker, Republican, and Charles Sawyer, Democrat, have been invited to address the school heads and present their school platforms.

Although Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk of the Mansfield board, said he still was unable to predict what the finance outcome would be in the city, Dr. David Sutton, state department of education finance expert, said "I was not bluffing when I said 75 per cent of the state's schools would have to close Dec. 1 unless the legislature met to alleviate the situation."

He added that "I will not allow the school districts to issue any more notes while the school foundation fund is showing a $16,500,000 deficit. That means that schools must close and 30,000 teachers will be thrown out of work."

Mansfield schools owe $51,000 on notes authorized by the state department of education because cash was not available for distribution under the foundation program.

SET DEADLINE

Lorain Board Gives Sheriff 3 Days in Ouster Move.

ELYRIA—(AP)—Under threat of increasing his office bond from $30,000 to $50,000, Lorain county commissioners today gave Sheriff William F. Grall, admitted bribe taker, until Monday to tell why he refuses to resign.

For a second time, the sheriff declined yesterday to accede to the commissioners' demands that he quit his post.

Grall testified at the bribery trial of five slot machine operators that he received $3,000 from them in return for "protection." He previously appeared before the grand jury upon a promise of immunity from prosecution.

He told the commissioners at a stormy conference that he would not act on their request until two more bribery trials are concluded.

Club Joins Move To Halt Removal Of Camp Mohican

The Mansfield Nature club today joined forces with the Chambers of Commerce of Richland and Ashland counties in a movement to retain the Mohican CCC camp in this district.

L. S. Barr, president, said the club issued an appeal to member clubs throughout north central Ohio to join in a plea to their representatives and senators for concerted action in Washington to forestall any plans to move the camp.

It was announced recently that the camp would be moved to the Hocking valley, near Nelsonville in southern Ohio. Loudonville and Ashland residents immediately opposed the move and the United States forestry department promised to delay action for a few weeks.

Last week the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce was enlisted and a plea was made to Congressman William A. Ashbrook and Senator Robert Bulkley in Washington to retain the camp in this section.

The Nature club meeting at the Memorial hall last night also made plans for a fall and winter program which will be inaugurated with a nature hike Oct. 23.

DERRICK FALLS

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—At least one man was drowned and more than 25 others were rescued from the Allegheny river today after a steel hoisting derrick broke and toppled 20 feet from the new Highland park bridge in Pittsburgh's east end.

Hailstones Pelt Willard, City Covered With 5 Inches of 'Ice'

Hailstones as large as hickory nuts broke windows and damaged automobiles last night in an unusual rainstorm that hit Willard late yesterday.

Sweeping into the city shortly before 6 p. m., the storm lasted for more than 30 minutes, and hailstones were piled five inches deep in the streets. The barrage of hail punctured the tops of automobiles and damaged the paint on cars.

Heavy rain accompanied the storm, and water was three and four feet deep in the city's subways.

The storm apparently was local, since communities a few miles away had no rain. Following a rainstorm which brought about .14 of an inch of precipitation to Mansfield yesterday, the temperature dropped to 36 degrees, only four above freezing, last night.

The forecast predicted fair and warmer for today, with partly cloudy and colder weather due Saturday.

Father Convicted In Morals Case Gets 1-10 Years In Pen

Deliberating 27 minutes, a jury in common pleas court this morning found Harry Hatfield, 38, of Shelby, guilty of incest, and Judge C. H. Huston sentenced him to one to 10 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

While Judge Huston reproved Hatfield as "a menace to society, undeserving of any leniency," the defendant's 17-year-old daughter, whom he was accused of mistreating, sobbed audibly.

In a crowded courtroom, the girl yesterday told of her father's immoral relations at their home in Shelby after he had obtained her release from the custody of the Crawford county court to permit her to keep house for him.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Leo Frickley, who is divorced from Hatfield and has married again, yesterday testified against her daughter, asserting that the girl could have lived with her if she had desired. Hatfield denied the girl's charges on the witness stand and attempted to place the blame

ILLINOIS G.O.P. SUPPORTS $30 PENSION PLAN

Plank for Increase in Funds for Aged, Major Part of Party's Platform.

(By United Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Republican promises to increase old age pensions provide one of the major issues over which Democrats and the G. O. P. are battling in Illinois' 1938 political campaign.

Republicans fired the first gun by adopting a platform calling for minimum old age payments of $30 monthly, compared to the present state average of $18, and the age 65 and unemployment as the only qualifications.

Leaders of the Democratic state administration replied that the G. O. P. proposal would bankrupt the state by tripling the present pension rolls and doubling individual payments.

They also asserted Illinois would lose federal aid for old age assistance by eliminating the qualification of need and that the whole burden would be thrown on the state.

Count On U. S. Share.

G. O. P. campaigners have made statements indicating they assumed the Federal government would provide half the cost as under the pension program now in operation and have contended the increase in the state share could be provided by greater efficiency in administration.

Approximately 125,000 Illinois residents now are on the old age pension list. According to Democratic leaders, Federal social security figures fix the number of persons over 65 in the state at nearly 500,000.

They conclude that 450,000 would receive pensions under the Republican program.

Backbone of the state's revenue sources is a sales tax of 3 per cent, which S. L. Nudelman, state finance director, declared would need be tripled to meet the Republican pension demands.

An alternative, he says, would be to revive the state property tax which was abandoned with the adoption of the sales tax and make it several times its former rate.

Elect One Senator.

At stake in the elections Nov 8 will be one U. S. senatorship, 27 seats in Congress, 153 in the lower house of the Illinois general assembly and 28 in the state senate, and the offices of state treasurer, state school superintendent, state supreme court clerk and three University of Illinois trusteeships.

Rep. Scott W. Lucas heads the Democratic ticket as nominee for the U. S. Senate seat now held by William H. Dieterich, who did not seek renomination.

The Republican candidate for senator is State Rep. Richard J. Lyons, outspoken opponent of the New Deal and the state administration.

IT'S SEASON FOR PUPMPKIN PIES, GOLDEN FRUIT FLOODS MARKET

A flood of golden pumpkins, suggestive of warm, savory pies has descended upon markets from Richland county fields. There was an abundant crop this year and they are reasonable in price.

Pumpkins are included in the list of "yellow foods" that are high in vitamins and which contain nourishment for the eyes, according to leading dieticians. There are several varieties of squash on the market, but the most popular is the old-fashioned yellow Hubbard.

Suggestions for the family dinner may be found in the fresh oysters that are in season now; in the eggplant that is frequently used as a meat dish, in white heads of cauliflower and in bunches of bright yellow carrots.

Okra for soup, fresh mushrooms, green and wax beans, lima beans and green peas from California are found on most markets this week. Among the salad vegetables are Chinese celery cabbage, crinkley savoy cabbage, fresh spinach, escarole, bleached endive and French endive, cucumbers and hothouse tomatoes.

There are plenty of Florida grapefruit, mostly of the seed variety; fresh figs and new crop or dates made their appearance this week. Small sugar pears for pickling or spicing are still to be seen and here and there are baskets of blue plums. Most of the big pears, however, are from California.

For the week-end there will be strawberries and red raspberries, a few cantaloupes, a few watermelons, and plenty of honeydew melons.

LITTER OF 17

Sow Has Family of 8, Increases It Month Later.

LIMA—(U.P.)—The fact that D. C. Gamble's sow, Gold Leaf Connie II, gave birth to eight pigs was not unusual, but when she showed signs of sickness 25 days later he called a veterinarian.

When the veterinarian arrived four pigs had been born and by the next morning there were nine more pigs to be added to the eight born almost a month before—a total litter of 17.

Ballot Goes To Cornell Club

By HERBERT W. BARKER

NEW YORK—(AP)—Operating from short punt formation, ready to run, pass or kick (especially run), this football corner takes a look at the week's football schedule, heaves a sigh of wistful resignation and emerges with the following guesses:

Herbert W. Barker

ALABAMA-TENNESSEE: The game of games in the Southeastern conference this week. It might even settle the championship although that's taking an extremely far-sighted bird's-eye view of the situation. Alabama.

WISCONSIN-PITT: Harry Stuhldreher must have been feeding his Wisconsin Badgers nothing but raw meat, but the conviction grows that this Pitt outfit has everything. Pitt.

CALIFORNIA-U. C. L. A.: That was a minor mircale U. C. L. A. engineered last week against Washington but California power would seem to be the decisive factor here. California.

TEXAS A. & M.-TEXAS CHRISTIAN: A Santa Clara team that ran up 22 points on Stanford could score only seven on the Aggies. Nevertheless Christian gets the nod here.

MINNESOTA-MICHIGAN: Other guys can analyze this one if they want to. This corner prefers to call out the coin and it reads . . . Minnesota.

SYRACUSE-CORNELL: Two undefeated eastern powers collide here. If this ballot goes to Cornell it's because the Ithacans have faced more rugged opposition.

FORDHAM-PURDUE: The same sort of reasoning ought to make Purdue the selection in this one but this guesser strings along with a hunch. Fordham.

NOTRE DAME-ILLINOIS: A grand line and an attack sharp enough to subdue Indiana will make Illinois an exceedingly tough customer for Notre Dame but on the general theory that the Irish can do better than they did against Georgia Tech, a weak-kneed ballot for Notre Dame.

* * * * *

Selects Ohio State Over Northwestern.

NORTHWESTERN-OHIO STATE: The grapevine says Northwestern is one of the really strong teams in the Big Ten but this corner, more stubborn than usual, takes Ohio State.

DUKE-GEORGIA TECH: This series has developed some of football's most dramatic games. Out of the hat, Duke.

CARNEGIE TECH-HOLY CROSS: Possible upset here, but take Holy Cross.

COLUMBIA-COLGATE: The Columbias, with their limited manpower, can't go on indefinitely, but they rate the call.

DARTMOUTH-BROWN: This would appear to be the spot where the Brown Bear gets trapped. Dartmouth.

HARVARD-ARMY: And still no hope for Harvard.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY-NORTH CAROLINA: North Carolina, narrowly.

PRINCETON-PENN: Princeton looks too green to cope with Penn.

WEST VIRGINIA-MICHIGAN STATE: West Virginia's been a big disappointment and the ballot goes to Michigan State.

YALE-NAVY: Looks like third straight beating for Yale.

NEBRASKA-INDIANA: Nebraska, the boys say, will be very good in November. This is October and we take Indiana.

KANSAS-OKLAHOMA: Can't see Kansas against a really fine Oklahoma team.

MISSOURI-IOWA STATE: Iowa State.

* * * * *

Rice, but Reserves Right to Appeal.

TULANE-RICE: Rice, reserving right to appeal.

VANDERBILT-MISSISSIPPI: Who threw that brick? In sheer despair, Mississippi.

KENTUCKY-WASHINGTON & LEE: Kentucky.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE-WAKE FOREST: Very close, Wake Forest.

ARKANSAS-TEXAS: Arkansas.

BAYLOR-CENTENARY: Looks like Baylor.

STANFORD-OREGON: On the records. Oregon.

WASHINGTON-OREGON STATE: Washington.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA-WASHINGTON STATE: Southern California.

COLORADO-GEORGE WASHINGTON: Visitors seldom do well in the rarified atmosphere of the Rockies but . . . recklessly, George Washington.

K-B Foe Rates High In Semi-Pro Circles

Rossford Merchants' Lineup Studded With Former Collegiate Gridiron Luminaries.

COACH GIP MILLER and his Kallmerten & Baer Coals will attempt to erase the unpleasant pictures of three straight one-touchdown defeats from their memory at League park Sunday when they mix with the Rossford Merchants.

Showing gradual improvement, the K-B team is overdue, Miller believes, and Sunday may find it producing the type of football it appears capable of playing.

Plans No Changes.

Miller does not plan any radical changes in the Kallmerten & Baer lineup. He believes he has been using his strongest lineup, but it has been ineffective because of sloppy blocking.

Work on improving the running game has been dealt with in drills this week, and Miller is pleased with the progress the Coals have shown in this department.

Bob Hall, Rabbit Siler, Gil Weigand and Vern Heiser are just a few of the backs Miller bosses who are capable of stepping out for yardage if broken loose.

Defensively, Mansfield has held its own rather well. Virtually all of the touchdowns scored by opponents came as the result of passes

Sunday the Mansfield team will face a foe that has rated well up in semi-pro grid circles for many years. This year Rossford is represented by another strong unit, which, up to date, has not been beaten. It will be a feather in the Kallmerten & Baers' helmets if they can halt the visitors.

Players Experienced.

The Rossford lineup is made up almost completely of players with college experience.

Outstanding ball players on the club are Joe Losonsky, a fullback of Toledo U., and Halfbacks Joe Durco and Earl Fitzgerald of Xavier and Michigan State, respectively

While not exactly lightweights themselves, the Coals are expected to be outweighed by Rossford.

Hunting, Fishing Banned at Dam Area

Acting on the recommendation of directors of the Muskingum Water Conservancy district and management agents, the Ohio Division of conservation today ordered the Charles Mill dam area closed to hunters and fishermen.

The order was received today in a letter by Carl Wachenschwanz of Ashland, game management agent of the Charles Mill dam, in a letter from Larry Woodell, state conservation commissioner, and it will be in effect for one year. Boating in the reservoir is also prohibited, Wachenschwanz said

By OSCAR RUHL

IT WILL be an afternoon for the squaring of old accounts Saturday at Sandusky's Stroebel field when the Mansfield high pigskin wrestlers mix with the Blue Streaks, if the Tygers are to have their way.

Doubtless one score that the Tygers believe needs immediate settling is the 6 to 0 reverse handed to them by an underrated Sandusky club last year. But there is another that they believed should have been attended to even last season.

This harks back to a rainy afternoon in 1936 when Coach Russ Murphy's men bowed to a weaker Sandusky aggregation by a 6 to 2 count.

Forwards Are Tough.

Murphy and his Tygers are bent on making this a Mansfield year, but their success depends on their ability to loosen up what has been an impregnable Sandusky line.

Hershey

Whether they run or throw, the Tygers will have to do something about the Sandusky forwards, and this will have to be accomplished by speeding up their own operations.

Judging from what the Tygers did on the practice field this week, Coach Murphy is going to send his men into battle to do a lot of running, with the aerial game being used merely as a threat.

Of course, if the ground game bogs down, the Tygers, naturally, will take to the air.

In other words, the strategy to be employed by the Tygers will depend almost entirely on developments.

Mansfield will go into the ball game, which is expected to attract around 8,000, the underdog. On paper, about the only advantage the Men of Murphy will possess is weight, and the difference in this department is only about six pounds per man.

Word was received from Sandusky today that all of the Sandusky cripples will return to the lineup Saturday. Al Gant, 175-pound colored fullback, brother of the famous London; Quarterback Ernie Thomas and Guard Don Platte were injured in the Toledo Waite setto and they were kept out of the lineup against Tiffin Junior Order to be ready for Mansfield.

Coach Bob Whittaker, however, will not start any of those just stricken from the hospital list, but they will see action.

One of the chief menaces in the Sandusky backfield is Geno Balconi, junior sparkplug of the 1937 victory over the Tygers. An adept pass collector, Balconi is also one of Sandusky's most feared runners.

Tygers in Shape.

With the exception of Dick McMullen, who is still nursing a bad leg, the Tygers will go into the game in perfect condition.

Harold Gallagher, who was unable to start last week because of an injury, will be back at center. Howard Hershey, who was not in uniform last week because of the death of his father, will be at quarterback Saturday.

The game is scheduled to get under way at 2:30 p. m.

Bantams' Foe Packs Perfect Grid Record

Akron Bismarcks Boast of Uncrossed Goal Line.

Bantamweight football will be presented on a Mansfield gridiron for the first time in many years Sunday when the new outfit coached by Harry Dandakis engages the DeLuca Bismarcks of Akron at the Fairground.

The game of featuring the bantamweights was introduced here five years ago when a team represented the city in an Ohio league, which disbanded after a brief existence.

While little interest was manifest in the bantamweights in the city then, Business Manager Al Hamilton believes the game can be built up with proper attractions.

The Mansfield team is taking on anything but a set-up Sunday. The Akron eleven is not only undefeated, but boasts of an uncrossed goal line.

The DeLuca club, which has succeeded the Red Peppers as Akron's major bantamweight club, holds a 6 to 0 decision over the touted Cleveland Skippies.

Mansfield will complete preparations for the tussle in a workout today.

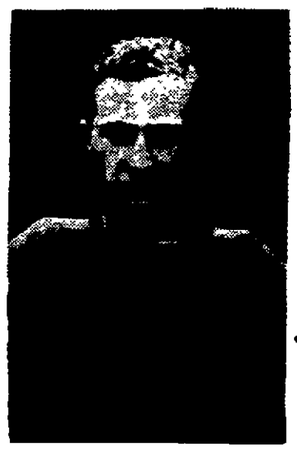
Face Ohio Northern In Homecoming Saturday



RUD PLANK

ASHLAND—A newcomer and a veteran in the Ashland college football squad are Edward "Bud" Plank, sophomore end and Harley Freer, nimble half-back, both of Ashland, respectively, strongly counted on in the homecoming game here against Ohio Northern university Saturday.

Plank, who had experience at Ashland high school, has played in all three varsity games so far this year, giving a creditable performance in each one, despite the sparsely manned Ashland squad which is fighting against bitter odds this year.

Freer, a senior, was responsible for the 34-yard run for a touchdown against Heidelberg in the opening game of the season. Freer makes up for his comparative light weight with a speed which has meant a great deal to the fighting Ashland Eagles.

Upper Sandusky Invades Madison Stadium Tonight

Shelby, Galion Grid Teams Also Play Under Lights on Home Grids.

MADISON high's once-defeated Rams will attempt to lengthen their win streak over Class B grid foes tonight when they clash with Upper Sandusky at Madison field at 8 o'clock.

The Rams' high-scoring combine, smarting from the setback handed by Mt. Vernon last week, is set to turn all of its stuff loose tonight in an effort to regain its winning stride.

Upper Sandusky has dropped two contests. The invaders lost to Marion Harding and Crestline, but have showed considerable improvement in each game.

The club's chances of victory will hinge somewhat on its ability to halt the Rams' powerful backfield. In three games, before it was halted by the Jackets, Madison had tallied 155 points.

The Rams are in excellent condition and will be at full strength for tonight's affair.

Shelby Team Seeks Second NCO Win.

THE Madison-Upper Sandusky contest will share the spotlight with five other night affairs in north central Ohio. The headliner tosses the undefeated Shelby Whippets against Bucyrus at Shelby. The Whippets will be seeking their second straight North Central Ohio conference victory.

Crestline high will step out of its class when it treks to Mt. Vernon to face the conquerors of Madison. The Jackets will be after their 13th straight home triumph.

Galion entertains Norwalk's outfit, Ashland high invades Wooster to face the Generals and Marion plays hosts to Cleveland John Rhoades.

Babe To Try Minor Loop Job If Passed by Browns, Cards

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK—(INS)—Babe Ruth is a sadly disillusioned, slightly disgruntled, but still highly optimistic baseball idol.

A few years ago the Yankees spiked his life-long ambition to manage a major league club. Now the Dodgers have handed him the same bitter pill of disappointment.

But the Babe is still casting a longing and hopeful eye toward the Browns and Cardinals. And if they reject him, he probably will accept one of several offers he has had to lead a minor league team.

This is a different tune from the one he sang a few years ago when he refused Col. Jake Ruppert's offer to manage the Yankee farm at Newark. At that time Babe said he would never have anything to do with the minors.

He now realizes that was a mistake, and is prepared to rectify it by showing what he can do with a minor league team as a stepping stone to a managerial berth in the majors.

The Babe expected to step from the coaching line of the Dodgers to the managerial spot when Burleigh Grimes moved out. But Leo Durocher moved into the spot vacated by Grimes.

This, of course, made the Bambino's position untenable even as coach for several reasons, not the least of which is the fact that Babe was a national baseball hero when Durocher broke in as a raw busher

Bucks Picked To Lose

But Schmidt Says His Boys 'May Surprise Somebody Saturday' in Evanston.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Coach Francis Schmidt and 34 Ohio State football players entrained today on a mission of taming Wildcats Saturday afternoon in Evanston, Ill.

Tempered by two tough opening games against Indiana and Southern California, the rapidly-improving Bucks eagerly accepted the role of underdogs in their battle with Northwestern's Cats.

Coach Schmidt, apparently was pleased by improved blocking, a hard-running attack and high moralc displayed in practice during the past week, and declared his boys "may surprise somebody Saturday."

If the Bucks succeed in their quest, they will become co-favorites for the Big Ten title along with mighty Minnesota, which itself must invade the Wildcat lair Oct. 29.

While bettors favored the Purple on the basis of the Bucks' jittery showing against Indiana and Southern California, Ohio State partisans were not discouraged. They pointed out that a potentially great coterie of sophomore backfielders had soaked up experience from two of the trickiest and most powerful teams in the nation

Anthony, Geiger and Funston Lead Restaurant Team to Three Wins Over Mansfield Printers.

THE second-place Satterlee Restaurant team established a new season scoring record in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night with a particularly hot 2916 total.

Rolling scores of 938, 964 and 1014, the Restaurateurs won three games from the Mansfield Printers. Wayne Anthony led the restaurant team with a 639, Harold Geiger, who opened with a 258, followed with a 625 and Ed Funston contributed a 623.

Led by Reed's 625 and Kahl's 618, the Metz Auto Supplies came through with the second high team total of 2890 and a sweep over the Kochheiser Sports. The Heilman Grocers whipped out a 2856 count without a single 600 to annex three games at the expense of the Shelby Cycles.

The Office Cafe remained a game in front of the Satterlee bunch by grabbing three victories from the Mansfield Rugs with a 2807 total. Charley Gimbel, 612, and Bookman, 608, were high for the Office team

The Ringside Cafe hit the sticks for a 2757 total and a pair of wins over the Ohio Public Service entry. Worman rolled an even 600 for the Cafe. Leo Yuncker led his Sports to two wins over the Burghardt Cafe

THEATER

ONE of the greatest male stars in all motion picture history is an extra player today and far from bitter about the freak of fate. He is Maurice Costello, one of the first, if not actually the first, great matinee idol of the screen. With the exception of Valentino no male star ever topped him in box office popularity. More than 60 years old now, he is playing a bit part in "Topper Takes a Trip" and enjoying the experience of meeting the stars of today who were the extras of his day. He's the father of Dolores Costello Barrymore.

* * *

Wants to Be Hero.

J. Carrol Naish, who plays the title role in "King of Alcatraz," at the Madison, is really a sheep in wolf's clothing; for although he always plays roles steeped in dark villainy, he has always longed for a role in which he dashes up to the old homestead in the nick of time with cash for the mortgage. He continues his badman roles in this story of Alcatraz and a prison break.

* * *

The Schools' Loss.

Texas public schools lost a very pretty school ma'am when Ann Sheridan won a beauty contest and entered the movies She was studying to be a teacher. In "Broadway Musketeers" she has a leading role, along with Margaret Lindsay and Marie Wilson and sings two songs. The story is of three Broadway beauties who meet years after a childhood friendship. At the Ohio.

Action-Filled Drama.

Jack Randall is the hero of "Gunsmoke Trail," while lovely Louise Stanley, prettiest of the Western film heroines, plays opposite him in a rapid-action drama of an orphaned girl, the man who poses as her uncle in order to secure her estate, and the hero who rides to the rescue, not once but many times. Mickey Rooney in "Hoosier Schoolboy" is also being shown at the Majestic.

A Hughes Production.

Before Howard Hughes turned to the skyways he produced motion pictures, quitting only when the many censor boards became too much for him. Among the famous pictures that carried his banner were "Hell's Angels" and "Scarface." The latter was one of the most exciting and convincing of gangster films, with Paul Muni as Scarface. It's being shown at the Park this week, with "The Lady in Scarlet" as a second feature.

STOCK MARKET PAUSES AFTER STEADY CLIMB

Cashing in of Profits Viewed as Natural by Brokers; Loans Show Increase.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—(AP)—After a virtually uninterrupted advance of more than two weeks, the stock market paused to catch its breath today and profit taking shoved leading issues behind small minus signs.

Inclined to give ground were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Du Pont, N. Y. Central, Montgomery Ward, General Electric, Western Union and Standard Oil of N. J.

Business news continued the main market prop and the cashing in of profits by some traders was viewed as natural by most brokers.

Bonds and commodities were uneven, as were foreign securities markets.

Heartening were the figures of the federal reserve disclosing a jump of $8,000,000 in commercial loans in New York City for the week ended Oct. 11.

Week-end trade reviews reported a moderate pickup in retail spending throughout the country, with volume placed at from 2 to 10 per cent above the week before. There was still an unfavorable spread, it was added as compared with the similar period last year. Unusually warm weather was blamed for part of this lag.

OPEN SPY TRIAL

4 Face 20-Year Terms in Pen in Nazi Espionage Plot.

NEW YORK—(LP)—The selection of a jury began today for the trial of four alleged members of a Nazi spy ring which operated under direct supervision of the German secret police and navy intelligence and stole military code books, blueprints, sketches and models of United States warships and fighting planes.

The four prisoners, facing 20-year prison terms if convicted, were suspected only of being pawns in intrigues directed from Berlin. The highest German intelligence officers were named in the indictment and although this government never expected to reach them, they would be liable to arrest if they ever entered the United States.

The four on trial were: red-haired Johanna Hofmann, a hairdresser on the German liner Europa, alleged messenger for German agents; Erich Glaser, private at Mitchell Field, army air base, accused of having stolen an aviation code book; Guenther Rumrich, army deserter, and Otto Voss, mechanic at the Seversky airplane factory at Farmingdale, N. Y., who allegedly stole plans for a new army pursuit plane.

POWER FROM SUN

Inventor Says Gadget Will Revolutionize Industry.

LONDON—(LP)—An invention which if practical may revolutionize the electrical, gas and coal industries, is being developed by a British company.

Its inventor, a French scientist, declares it will extract electrical power from sunlight and do all the work of a generating station.

It is called the Helio-Electric Generating Cell, and a number of these wired together on the roof of a building and connected with storage batteries will produce at least 60 amperes an hour even on the dullest day, it is said. On a sunny day the supply is multiplied by 10.

An official at the National Physical Laboratory where the cell has undergone tests said, "It definitely produces electricity."

TAX EXEMPTION SHIFTS BURDEN IN MISSISSIPPI

Property Owners Save But Levies on Beers, Cigarets Are on Increase.

(By United Press)

JACKSON, Miss.—Mississippi's homestead tax exemption program probably will have 133,000 property owners from 60 to 70 per cent of former assessments.

Assessors' offices are packed and jammed five months ahead of what was in former years tax paying time. Extra help works night and day to shift an estimated $3,500,000 a year tax burden to cigarette smokers, beer drinkers, and state ad valorem levy and a treasury surplus.

The far-reaching tax experiment was undramatically passed last August. Gov. Hugh White, who fostered the legislation, signed the bills in bed. When senate and house differences threatened to mire the legislation, White's doctors ordered him to bed.

The amended and compromised measures that finally emerged from a record number of committee meetings limit homestead exemption to residences actually owned and occupied by heads of families. Rented and business property is excluded.

$5,000 Property Maximum.

Municipal taxes and taxes to retire bonded debt are excluded from the program. A $5,000 roof is set on eligible property and acreage is limited to 160.

The original plan would have exempted all homes, regardless of valuation, but would have limited exempted acreage to 80.

The tax commission estimated that the first plan would have cost the state $7,000,000 for the biennium. It was impossible to estimate the cost of the final program but tax experts said they believed it would be the same.

A temporary finance program, argued and re-argued before passage, increased the cigarette tax to 4 cents a package; raised the retail tax on beer from ½ cent to 2 cents a bottle, and approved assessment of the maximum state ad valorem of 6 mills instead of the previous collected levy of 4 mills.

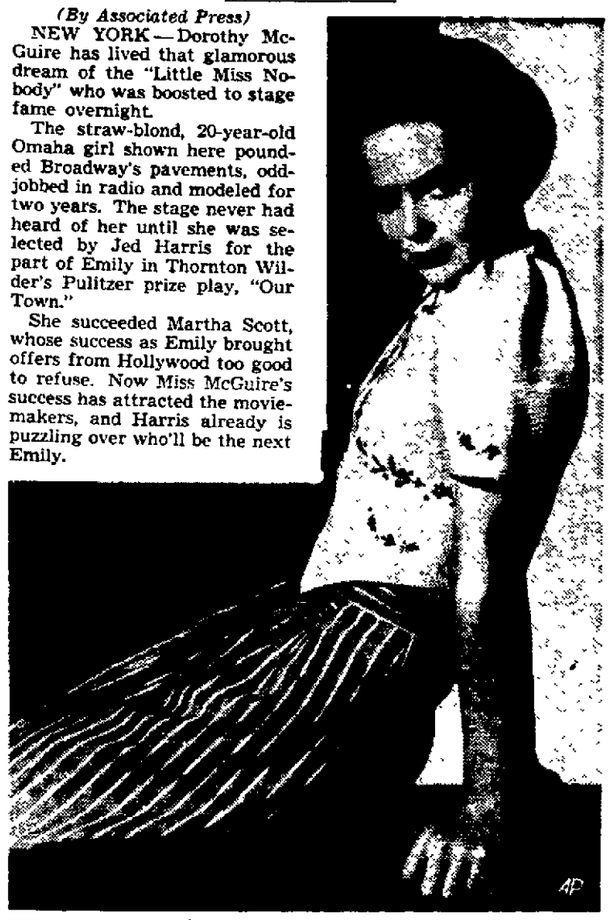
The legislature provided only three payments to counties and municipalities during the remainder of the current biennium. It provided $5,250,000 and figured that with the new special taxes a "technical deficit" of $579,000 would be created. The tax commission believes unexpended appropriations will cover this shortage.

Permanent finance measures are expected to be passed at the next session of the legislature when the program gets out of the experimental stage.

To obtain exemption, an eligible property owner must make a sworn application with the county or municipal tax assessor. The county board of supervisors or the city council then will approve or deny the application.

County and city clerks make a copy of the land rolls, recapitulate them and make a special certificate to the state tax commission for each taxing district, showing the total assessed valuation, the exempted assessed valuation of homes, and the tax rate for each district.

Little 'Nobody' From Omaha Shines As Broadway Star



(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Dorothy McGuire has lived that glamorous dream of the "Little Miss Nobody" who was boosted to stage fame overnight.

The straw-blond, 20-year-old Omaha girl shown here pounded Broadway's pavements, odd-jobbed in radio and modeled for two years. The stage never had heard of her until she was selected by Jed Harris for the part of Emily in Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer prize play, "Our Town."

She succeeded Martha Scott, whose success as Emily brought offers from Hollywood too good to refuse. Now Miss McGuire's success has attracted the movie-makers, and Harris already is puzzling over who'll be the next Emily.

N. Y. REJECTS PLAN TO PROVIDE PLAYGROUND FOR 250,000 DOGS

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—John H. Prenzlau's suggestion that New York provide a "playground" for its 250,000 dogs was rejected by Deputy Mayor Henry H. Curran on grounds that it would be unfair to cats and playgroundless children.

Curran, in a lengthy letter, explained to Prenzlau that, although he personally likes dogs, building them playgrounds just wouldn't work, despite the fact that the idea was sound enough.

The Deputy Mayor said 1,000 playgrounds would be required to pen in all the dogs in New York City. He added that the city does not now have enough playgrounds for children and is having a hard enough time trying to provide for them without adding dogs to the list.

Curran pointed out also that if dogs had playgrounds, then cat owners would start howling for cat playgrounds.

"The ordinary two-fisted New York cat," wrote Curran, "does pretty well for himself, in and out of alleys and garbage cans. One of the most beautiful sights in nature is the hindquarters of the common cat upended on the rim of a garbage can while its head and forepaws conduct an invisible analysis of the garbage within.

"But pet cats are different. They do not understand garbage.

"I suspect," Curran concluded, "that we also should have applications for forests for all the pet tomtits and canary birds and macaws. And what about the pet roaches?"

able to go into such details at this time as to the possible increase in the size of the standing army of the particular number of airplanes or any type of equipment which might be needed to assure America adequate security from an attack. He asserted that these details will be worked out in the study now being made and that he wants to be able to give the country a complete picture of national defense requirements, instead of confusing them with a stream of minor details. He added that he is trying to think in broad terms of national defense in view of new world conditions.

The threat to national security has been shaping up for the past year, the president revealed, but he said it had been forced to a head by events and information, some of which is not publicly known, which the White House received during the past month.

'Pressure Campaign' Angers Hungary.

BUDAPEST —(AP)— The Hungarian cabinet announced today it had decided to take "further measures for the military security of the country" and said heavily-armed Czechoslovakia had attempted to exert pressure on Hungary in the dissolved Komarom conference.

The announcement came after an all-night cabinet session in which ministers sought means to obtain from Czechoslovakia Hungarian-populated territory which Hungary is demanding.

The cabinet's communique asserted that Czechoslovakia had mobilized men up to 60 years of age.

Britain, France, Germany and Italy, have been informed of the breakdown yesterday of the Czechoslovak-Hungarian territorial negotiations at Komarom, the cabinet announcement said.

The official view was that the tense situation between Czechoslovakia and Hungary was placed squarely on the four powers whose heads resolved the German claim to Sudetenland at Munich, Sept. 29.

Chinese Rush Plan To Evacuate Canton.

HONGKONG —(AP)— Preparations were hurried today to send 400,000 women and children and the municipal and provincial governments into the interior from Canton as a new Japanese force of 40,000 moved closer to that South China metropolis.

The invading army captured Tamshui, 12 miles from Bias Bay where it landed Wednesday, and was reported striking due west in a 20-mile drive to cut the important Canton-Kowloon railway at a point about 20 miles from the border on this British crown colony.

Incessant bombing and shelling left Tamshui in ruins. The invaders drove toward the important garrison city of Watchow, 82 miles east of Canton and 35 miles north of Hongkong.

Chinese resistance improved as the Japanese columns moved steadily inland, but the invaders' airplanes and artillery were being used with crushing force.

Speech Widens Church Breach.

VIENNA—(AP)—Nazi leaders said today the breach between the state and the Catholic church was wider than ever, after Austrian Nazi Commissioner Joseph Buerckel's anti-cleric speech, and predicted many Nazis would withdraw from the church.

Buerckel's listeners in Heros' square last night cried "we'll leave the church" after he announced:

"If they pray against us in church, then I demand of every individual National Socialist that he have nothing to do with such a church."

Buerckel blamed Czechoslovak Jews for demonstrations in behalf of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer last Friday. The demonstration fired Nazi resentment, and in fighting on Saturday the cardinal was injured by a stone. Windows of his palace were broken.

"I have decided," Buerckel said, "that all Czechoslovak Jews and those Czechs who compromised must leave Vinna as soon as possible."

For two hours crowds hooted and yelled before the cardinal's palace after Buerckel's speech last night.

Laying down new measures against the Austrian Catholic hierarchy, Buerckel rejected Catholic proposals for the release of Kurt Schusschnigg, deposed chancellor, who is in custody at German secret police headquarters here.

Approximately a dozen witnesses testified in the case, described as one of the most sordid ever heard in Richland county courts.

Hatfield, who was under probation for a previous sex offense, made no comment when sentence was passed by Judge Huston about 10 a. m. Atty. Frank Culp, Hatfield's lawyer, asked the court for leniency.

Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott and his assistant, Harold Lutz, handled the case for the state. Lutz reviewed the testimony for the jury late yesterday.

OHIO GOLD MINE WORKED IN IOWA

'Flour' Gold Is Discovered in Basement, So Family's at Work Mining It.

(By United Press)

WATERLOO, La.—There's gold in the sands of Waterloo

Mrs. Bertha K. Huntley and her son, Don, last June found a four-foot stratum of sand in the basement under their house which assayers' reports lead them to believe contains enough of the precious metal to warrant mining operations.

To prevent a fruitless "gold rush" it was explained that the "pay streak" is not of sufficient proportions to lure potential prospectors at Waterloo

The Huntleys themselves estimate their yield will not exceed $50,000 of $60,000. And whatever the yield is much strenuous labor is necessary before the fine particles of gold are separated from the sand.

Assayers' reports showed that the sand stratum would yield from .985 ounces to .43 ounces of "flour" gold to the ton. On the basis of the present value of $35 per troy ounce, the sand would yield from $15 to $33 a ton.

Even at those figures the Huntleys believe the pay streak is worth working and they have begun operations on a full time scale.

A motorized panner, capable of handling more than a cubic yard of sand an hour, has been set up in the back yard, which has been fenced off to keep out unwanted prospectors. A hydraulic pump forces water through the sand and earth and the fine particles of gold drop into mercury treated copper trays and down again to crepe rubber mats which catch and hold the metal

The metal then is sent to a smelter for refining and from there to the U. S. mint at Denver

BUILDING GAINS

1938 Within 80 Per Cent of 1929 Level, FHA Says.

CHICAGO —(INS)— Home building in 1938 is approaching 80 per cent of the 1929 home building level, with every prospect that the future will exceed even that level.

This was the word of Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator, here to address a meeting of the Mortgage Bankers' association.

He said:

"This home building is being financed by private capital. It is merely guaranteed by the FHA.

"We are gradually approaching the high 1929 home building level and are now close to 80 per cent of 1929.

"For the whole 1938, mortgage companies will have done more business under the National Housing act than in the three previous years combined. Their total business probably will exceed $100,000,000."

Current FHA business, he added, is running about 115 per cent ahead of a year ago.

The case is scheduled for trial Wednesday. The city will be represented by M. D. Ward, jr., city solicitor, while Attys. Marshall C. Moore, E. H. Romer and J. F. Williams will argue the case for the defendants.

First on Tuesday's schedule is a suit in which the Estes Coal and Ice, Inc., asks an injuction to restrain Clarence Estes from using the name "Estes" in connection with his coal business. Atty. C. F. Creedman is counsel for the plaintiff firm and J. M. Reed for the defendant.

Other Cases.

Other cases set for Tuesday are:

Millie H. Lenhart vs. Floyd J. Harris and others. Atty George W. Biddle for plaintiff and W. J. Bissman for defendant; H. B. Brickley vs. Lion Theater Corporation, Atty. James V. Will for plaintiff; Lester Wert vs. Lena Wert, Atty. C. J. Kalbfleisch for plaintiff and H. B. Dirlam for defendant; Ashland Lumber company vs. Nick Miller, Attys. Three divorce suits are set for hearing Thursday. They are:

City Gets First Peak At New Fire Truck Tomorrow

Mansfielders will get their first look at the city's new streamlined fire truck tomorrow when the pumper is delivered to the Central fire station in the city building.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger said today that he had received word from the Mack-International Motor Truck corporation that the equipment which was to have been here last week, will arrive tomorrow.

It will be several days before the apparatus will be put into service, Seeburger said. The new pumping equipment must be put through a six-hour test before engineers from the state fire inspection bureau. The test is expected to be conducted at North Lake park Tuesday.

The new pumper, the first piece of apparatus to be added in the fire department in 15 years, was purchased for $8,375.

He Tells It To All The Girls

The lucky man whispering in beautiful Hope Hampton's ear is George Burns, of the radio team of Burns and Allen. The dark lady at the right is Gracie Allen, surrealist painter, who has trouble finding her brother. The scene was snapped in society's newest rendezvous on Broadway, the Cassanova club.

HUNTERS ANGRY

Protest Decision Allowing Farmers to Kill Deer.

ALPENA, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan sportsmen are protesting a ruling by the state conservation department and a decision of a circuit judge permitting farmers to kill deer out of season to protect their crops.

The conservation department has issued special permits to farmers for that purpose. Circuit Judge Fred T. Miles exonerated a farmer fined in justice court for killing a deer out of season on the theory that he had a constitutional right to protect his property.

Michigan's deer population is estimated at between 750,000 and 1,000,000. Conservation officials said that 10,000 of them perished last winter because of lack of feed, even though the department bought 75 tons of alfalfa and 25 loads of cedar browse to feed them in some areas. In addition 51,200 were killed in the 15-day hunting season last year.

Select 3-Act Operetta.

"In Old Vienna," a three-act operetta, has been selected as the annual production to be staged by the A Capella choir and boys' and girls' glee clubs of Senior high school, A. L. Derr, director, announced today.

A cast of 13 students has been selected for the show. They are Dale Bechtel, William Lewis, Lenalla Myers, Betty Hanlon, Janet Kelly, Kathleen MacIntosh, Max Miller, Burlington Owens, Richard Wright, Janetta Bookmeyer, Marguerite Miller, William Hollingshead and Eugene Gump. No date has been selected for the presentation of the opera.

The formations presented by the Senior high school band and Girls' bugle and drum corps at football games at Stadium Field also will be presented when the team plays out of the city, J. Merton Holcombe, director of the musical groups, announced today. The band and bugle and drum corps will go to Sandusky tomorrow to perform at the Mansfield-Sandusky game and it is planned to send the two groups to other out-of-town games, Holcombe said.

SEEKS RULING

Executor Asks Court to Interpret Will, Give Instructions.

In a suit against nine heirs and legatees of Richard L. Powell of Mansfield, deceased, Frank H. Smith, executor of his estate, today asked common pleas court for an interpretation of the will and instructions for administering the estate.

Smith contends that the will, which leaves "all personal belongings" to John C. Friday of Springfield township and "all other assets" to Arloene Smith, is indefinite.

BUILDS 3 HOMES

Modern Homes Issued Permits for Residences Valued at $16,300.

Building valuations in Mansfield were boosted by $16,300 today with the issuance at city hall of permits for the construction of three new residences.

The licenses went to the Modern Homes company, 53½ North Main street, which will build a new residence at 411 Overlook road, valued at $8,300, another at 384 North Townview circle, for $6,000, and at 323 East First street, with an estimated valuation of $2,000.

LESS DRIVERS

Records Show Drop of 1,129 in Licenses Issued Here.

There are 1,129 less automobile drivers in Mansfield now than there were last year at the same time, records of Frank Beverstock, deputy registrar, in charge of the issuance of drivers' licenses here, showed today.

To date 15,947 licenses have been issued this year as compared with a total of 17,076 for the same period in 1937, Beverstock said.

A slight increase was reported in chauffeurs' licenses, with 1,404 issued this year against 1,364 in 1937.

Last year drivers' licenses were issued to 19,500 Mansfielders. The decrease is partially due to the fact that fewer cars are being operated this year as indicated by the number of license tags issued, Beverstock said.

MARKS BIRTHDAY

Grant Store Joins In Observing Company's 32nd Anniversary.

The W. T. Grant store, 59 North Main street, will join with other Grant stores throughout the United States, beginning Saturday, in celebrating the 32nd anniversary of the founding of the company.

The first store in the nationally-known chain was founded 32 years ago in Lynn, Mass., by W. T. Grant. The organization has now grown to 485 stores in principal cities in the United States, according to G. W. O'Connor, manager of the Mansfield unit.

SELLS PROPERTY

County to Put Two City Lots on Auction Block Tomorrow.

Two lots back of Mansfield Senior high school will be offered at sheriff's sale at the courthouse at 10 a. m. Saturday on a tax foreclosure judgment for $357 against the Farmers Savings and Trust company, owner of the properties.

The judgment was obtained by County Treasurer John E. Kolb. The lots are valued at $225 each.

LABORER DONATES $25,000

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal.—(U.P.)—L. E. Wrassee, 89, who as a laborer at $1.00 a day, invested his savings in annuities, has been able to donate $25,000 to the California Polytechnic school here as the nucleus of a fund for scholarships for members of the Future Farmers of America.

Mayor Crochets — It's Relaxing

Mayor Ralph C. Mitchell of Independence, Kan., is pictured in his hotel room in New York City, holding up a sample of crocheting. When interviewed he had his pipe drawing nicely, a pair of slippers on his feet, and his fingers were busy with a rose pattern bedspread. Sissy? No, says Mayor Mitchell. It's relaxing. Tatting, though, is another matter, he avers.

ANGER PASTOR

Women Wrestlers Criticized by British Minister.

CHELMSFORD, Eng. — (U.P.) — Criticism of women wrestlers has been voiced by the Provost of Chelmsford Cathedral, the Very Rev. W. E. R. Morrow.

"To my mind," he said, "nothing is more calculated to degrade human nature to its most bestial depths than the sight of an apparently healthy pair of young women, wearing nothing more than a bathing suit, indulging in all the repugnant postures of 'all-in' wrestling to the accompaniment of the jeers and promptings of a mixed crowd of onlookers."

The provost spoke of the "horrible" exhibitions staged "to satisfy the depraved minds of a certain class of people, whose pleasures are a travesty of healthy sport."

HOBBY VILLAGE

He Builds Miniature Town Within a Rock Garden.

FAIRHAVEN, Vt.—(INS)—Fashioning unusual objects from unusual materials is the hobby of William Gladd who recently finished a miniature village within a rock garden at his home, all made to scale and with industries, modes of transportation, churches and phases of village life completing the scene.

CROSSING OPEN

Workmen Complete Repaving of North Main Street Grade.

North Main street grade crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, which has been under construction for the past two weeks, was opened to traffic today, D. D. Orewiler, superintendent of streets, announced.

Orewiler said that railroad workmen will now move to the East Fifth street crossing to repave the grade there. Traffic will be detoured over East Fourth and Orange streets during the construction period, which is expected to be about a week.

When completed, East Fourth and Orange street grades will be repaved.

SILK WORM AS PET

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Miss Bo Ching, Chinese maiden, guards as her one and only exclusive pet, a silkworm named Sally. The idea of such a pet, she says, was suggested by the fact that her family once cultivated silk worms in China.

Some may be excused for thinking the New Deal is merely a new "line."

Yes, incomes look rather small in the South—until you look east and west across the sea.

Size isn't so important. Astronomers have found a star 10,000,000 times as big as our sun, but spread out so thin that there's no more stuff in it.

Dunking O. K.

IT IS REASSURING to learn from Boston, traditional stronghold of social propriety, that it is permissible now to dunk doughnuts at informal parties. This will not greatly change the situation, perhaps, but will make many furtive dunkards feel better.

It is probably only a question of a little more time now until Emily Post will be corroborating the Boston tip. And then only a little more time until the last sad remnant of elegant eaters, who think the consumption of food should be made as difficult as possible, will be dunking openly at "formal" functions.

For it is in the very nature of things that, when doughnuts and coffee are served, the one should be dipped in the other. There is, as millions of unbossed eaters have long known, a natural affinity between doughnuts and coffee, when so merged, that is one of the finest satisfactions in life and rarest discoveries of civilization. Only thus does the doughnut melt in the mouth and spread like ambrosia through one's whole system, so that even the physical act of swallowing becomes unconscious.

And it doesn't have to be held "between the thumb and the third finger of the right hand," either. Americans will rise almost as one man to repudiate that heresy.

Fair Magic.

IF YOU BELIEVE a spokesman for the New York fair now in preparation for next year, such enterprises are a wonderful form of business magic. And their benefits are not merely local, but national.

The mere materials used in construction will amount to $100,000,000, and by the time the 300 structures have been completed, the resulting trade stimulation will have spread to every corner of the land.

Then, he estimates, there will be $1,000,000,000 more spent on the fair. It will produce in the first place a billion dollars' worth of trade in Greater New York. And "by the time that expenditure has completed its cycle and been felt the country over, it will have grown to a ten-fold force, amounting to $10,000,000,000 of expenditure."

Whew! Now let us hear from the San Francisco fair.

Apparently all this country needs, to bring abounding prosperity, is to have a lot of big fairs all over the country and the population traveling around visiting them. There's one thing the federal government doesn't seem to have thought up.

Irish Plebiscite Problem.

PRIME MINISTER DE VALERA stopped off on his way home from the League of Nations assembly to talk with Prime Minister Chamberlain and to ask for a plebiscite, no less, in Northern Ireland, on the issue of union with the Free State, now called Eire. There are no racial differences, he admits, as in the European mass of scrambled nationalities. Yet he would like to see "application here of those principles of peace, justice and democracy professed so loudly elsewhere."

Nationalist members of Northern Ireland's parliament say of their fellow-nationalists, "no minority is more aggrieved." One wonders.

This is probably no laughing matter in Downing street, but we over here can't help smiling a little at the promptness with which some chickens come home to roost. Fortunately, settling Irish problems with soldiers and guns is an abandoned policy. Negotiation is the rule. Irishmen on both sides of the border doubtless will survive a plebiscite, however it turns out, and proceed about as usual.

Matter o' Money.

THE racial dictators in Europe, though inclined to sneer at Americans as a race of hybrids, are not above marrying their pure blood to our inferior stock when the latter has money. Thus from Italy, where there is a law against Italians marrying non-Italians of any breed, Aryan or non-Aryan, Premier Mussolini passes the word that members of his diplomatic corps may marry American girls if the latter have money to bring to their husbands—and to Italy.

Italian diplomats may now line up while our heiresses pass along and take their choice. Or the girls line up while the diplomats pick them out. It can work both ways.

Italy, of course, greatly needs money. Even so, the situation is illuminating and disillusioning. And the average American, while willing to marry and let marry, is not very enthusiastic about draining off our diminishing American wealth, matrimonially or otherwise, to support foreign dictatorships.

Seeing the Town.

THERE is a good deal of common sense in what Ruth Einsidler, a New York girl, did when she got back from a European tour. Ruth had ridden a bicycle 2,000 miles through five countries and seen many interesting things. As she saw museums and art galleries and cathedrals and tombs of famous men in city after city, it dawned on her that she had never seen her own city.

So, just as soon as Ruth got her stuff unpacked and got acquainted with her family again, she started to see the sights of New York, using a guide book there as she had done abroad.

Better late than never. The best way, though, is to see the home sights first. Then the traveler has a better basis for comparison.

How many people right here have really seen and understood their own city, so that they know its points of interest, its characteristics and special merits, and can talk about it as intelligently and interestingly as if it were a foreign city they had studied?

Keeping Step

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—A very shrewd Kansan recently in Washington remarked that the farm problem would be with us, unsolved, forty years hence. About a week later, in a speech at Hutchinson, Kansas, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A Wallace said that one who had been watching the wheat market over a period of years would not be surprised at the fact that the price had gone down. It was sure to come, he said, with a return of "normal weather."

But a couple of days later the report of the Great Plains Committee was made, predicting that continuing of grain growing in the Dakotas, eastern Montana and northern Nebraska is futile, and that the farmers are doomed to defeat and despair if they keep on trying.

And meantime comes a report from North Carolina that there is too much hay, due to the soil erosion policy of the department of agriculture. Which means, of course, that in the next few years North Carolina's production of cattle is going to leap skyward, as it is impractical to use the hay in any other way. There will be no turning from hay, either, for the soil-erosion payments by the government to farmers guarantee its continuance.

* * *

All of which gives an idea of what the would-be solvers of the agricultural problem are up against. For obviously this present surplus of wheat was produced without much help from the section studied by the Great Plains committee. And just as obviously, without much help from North Carolina. Now, if the Dakotas and other parts of this Great Plains area turn to grass, and hence to cattle, it would seem as though by the time both the northwest and the Carolina sections got down to cattle production in a big way there will be an overproduction of cattle as well as a surplus of wheat.

Then there is the cotton problem. It is the settled conviction of many shrewd observers that the Old South, east of the Mississippi, will not remain very much longer in the cotton growing game. It simply will not pay, unless the government is willing to pay a perfectly enormous subsidy IN ADDITION to the already huge farm subsidies being paid.

And this, observers agree, is because the government held up the price of cotton artificially in the first few years of the Roosevelt administration. For many decades the whole world has been looking for another cotton-growing area, or else a substitute for cotton, in order to avoid paying the hundreds of millions of dollars sent to the south.

* * *

Until just recently the rest of the world had no luck. Often a new area was discovered which would grow cotton, but always either the cotton was of an inferior quality or else was too expensive for economic production.

With the virtual guarantee of this government, at the beginning of the Roosevelt-Wallace regime, that the world price of cotton would be maintained, Brazil was added to the experimenting areas. Washington held a financial umbrella over the experiments, so they could not lose.

In Brazil cotton growing turned out to be a success. Incidentally, with almost unlimited territory open to the expansion of this crop, Brazil finds that she can produce cotton, and sell it at a profit, at six cents a pound American money. No state in the south east of the Mississippi can produce cotton profitably at six cents. So it looks very gloomy, either for southern cotton growers or the treasury.

* * *

Desperate efforts are being made by important German interests in this country, and some not interested through national ties but because of economic ideas, to have this country enter into a reciprocal trade agreement with Germany.

Because of the bitter feeling among so large a part of the population of this country against Hitler, and because of the disinclination of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, daddy of the reciprocal trade treaty formula for maintaining world peace, there is plenty of tenseness in the situation. All sorts of wires are being pulled by both sides, and the outcome is shrouded in doubt.

Those arguing for the German treaty all use the same contentions, though the two groups are motivated by entirely different springs. Most vociferous, of course, are the Germans who actually sympathize with Hitler. There are a lot of them, little as the casual newspaper reader might suspect it. But they are very active, as every official in the state department has good cause to know.

There is a considerable number of business men who believe in making a profit through trade, even if they trade with the devil, which is not surprising but merely what has been happening since the beginning of time. Then there is a very small group of important persons who have no feeling on the subject, save possibly disapproval of Hitler and Mussolini, and who have no selfish commercial end in mind, but who sincerely believe that the path to world peace and permanence of freedom from war depends chiefly on trade—and not just bilateral trade either, but world-wide trade. The more trade the better, they figure, both from the standpoint of world peace and of world prosperity.

Those who want to make a profit themselves by trading more with Germany naturally are convinced that the whole world will be more prosperous as a result. There is no hypocrisy in this. Nearly every business man the world over is convinced that if something were done to improve his particular line of business everybody in the entire world would be better off.

THE GOLDEN TORNADO

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C HILL

ONE of the wisest men I know is a button-maker, with a dingy, old-fashioned office on the lower West Side of New York—letter press, roll-top desk, old Carrara marble fireplace, etc. He is an elderly gentleman, the third of his generation in button-making. He doesn't like publicity, so I withhold his name. He is like your kindly old uncle, who always had something exciting, when you were a youngster, and he let you rummage in his pockets. But his treasures are ideas, usually neatly packaged, always interesting, and frequently new.

The effect of the fall of Czechoslovakia on the button business started him off. He always starts from the center of his universe and works on out, sometimes clear beyond the milky way. He disposed of buttons quickly and definitely and then, in stages which will not be reported here, swung into the world issue of the battle of the free state against the slave state.

* * *

"It is entirely possible," he said, "that the free state will be overwhelmed by the slave state. The steady advance of the latter indicates, in my opinion, the start of a new Armageddon in human society. I have no patience with anyone who thinks he knows how it will all come out. We just don't know enough to be entitled to any cocksure opinions. We might know more if we understood how ants and bees evolved their elaborate social systems. Scientists can't tell us. All they can do is to show us that things are thus and so. They can't tell us how they got that way."

"Why," I asked, "do you think there may be a show-down between the free state and the slave state?"

"Because it is quite evident, under existing conditions, that the free state cannot long compete against the slave state. I cite Japan, but I want to make the reservation that it is less in the pattern of the slave state than Russia or Germany. However, with the military caste dominating the country, and tolerating the great industrial and mercantile dynasties, such as the Mitsuis and Mitsuibishis, only for their own immediate purposes, Japan is in the general feudal pattern of the slave state, and is enjoying its economic advantages."

"Do you refer to dumping and underselling?"

"Yes. Japan can put down a good bicycle in this country for $5 because of its absolute control of management, ownership, labor and raw materials. Labor takes whatever wages they hand it and works the hours required. So do ownership and management. Vast reservoirs of state credit, shrewdly and ruthlessly employed in large-scale purchasing, give a similar advantage, over a free economy, in the competition for raw materials. I mention Japan as merely illustrative. The picture is true in all countries where the state is the autocrat over the national economy."

* * *

I asked my friend whether there couldn't be some intermediate form of state in which there would be a measure of freedom for any man who deserved it.

"The tiny Greek states were more or less of this form," he said. "They were, however, essentially slave states, the helots outnumbering the Athenians by seven or eight to one. But there is a sharp difference to be noted between these and the modern slave stage. In Greece there was freedom of thought and opinion for intelligent men. Even intelligent slaves, such as Epictetus, were admitted to this spiritual freedom. But they were overwhelmed by barbaric slave states. It was not until the time of Constantine and the deeper rooting of Christianity that the ideal of entirely free masses came into the world."

"Can't you tell me something encouraging?"

"Yes. The essential virtues of civilization are still implanted deep in the human heart. You will note that the builders of the modern slave states have to acquire power by invoking morality, truth, freedom and justice. In the days of the primitive slave state, it was not necessary to use these decoy words. It used to be that slave-mongers could merely conquer us. Now they have to both conquer and fool us.

"That's why I like to give you newspaper lads an idea whenever I can. Free newspapers are the hope of the world. You can't fool a people that has a free press. Have a cigar."

The professor, as I always call him, gave me a terrible stogie. I was so worried about the slave state that I smoked it and if all this seems a bit foggy you will know why.

Yellow Fever Problem Not Settled.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE WERE all startled a few months ago when Dr. Victor Heiser wrote in a popular magazine that we might be on the verge of a new epidemic of yellow fever. We had thought that this was a public health problem that was completely settled. Simply do away with a certain kind of mosquito and the danger is ended. But Dr. Heiser points out that yellow fever may be carried by other things than the mosquito.

One of the arresting things about the idea is that yellow fever may be carried to the United States from the jungles of South America by airplane traffic.

To understand the modern yellow fever problem we must consider that there are two types of the disease now generally recognized. (1) One is the ordinary type encountered in the great epidemics of port towns and carried by the species of mosquito known as Aedes aegypti; and (2) jungle yellow fever not borne by the Aedes aegypti, now present in some parts of South America.

In South America the principal ports do not have yellow fever at present. Brazil is an example of a country where extra efforts are being made to keep the seaports free of all forms of mosquitoes. The yellow fever in Brazil is the jungle type, spreading slowly from community to community, and airplanes visiting such communities may easily bring it north. Several insects are suspected of forming an animal reservoir of the disease.

Considering Preventive Problem.

Considering the preventive problem as a whole, an airplane might conceivably carry into the United States (1) mosquitoes infected with yellow fever; (2) new species of mosquitoes that might become acclimated here and later become infected by an imported human case, serving as a new and efficient vector for the spread of yellow fever in this country; (3) human cases of yellow fever; (4) human cases infected with yellow fever but arriving here during the incubation period; (5) infected animals.

On the assumption that yellow fever is most likely to be introduced into the United States by airplanes, the one great protective measure that can be applied is to make all of our southern ports of arrival free of the Aedes aegypti.

In such an Aedes-free port, granted that an infected mosquito were landed and that it bit and infected one or more persons who subsequently developed yellow fever, there would be no mosquito vector to pass on the virus to other individuals and thus start an epidemic. Fumigation of arriving airplanes to prevent introduction of infected mosquitoes is the measure of choice.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Futility of Haste.

How futile we should walk these ways
In haste, we who are dust,
Here but a moment, as a grain
Of sand into them thrust!

How futile all our hurry when
At best our time is brief,
How futile crowding hours with tasks
Or play beyond belief!

So short our time and only long
Enough for beauty where
Each day it lifts its wonder that
It may new hearts ensnare.

A Farmer's Diary

The Spring Mill.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE spring flows steadily out from an opening in the bank and fills the storage basin. The little mill sets at the edge of this, among a growth of willows. Two sides of the building are of brick, the others frame. I wondered about this.

When I opened the huge front door a bell jangled. Nobody was about, and I stood within and looked around. The beams, rough hewn, proclaimed the building very old. Two sides, of cement and brick, helped to hold the structure steady. I conjectured that the constant vibration of machinery made this precaution necessary.

Huge conduits of wood and sheetiron led about overhead, and connected with machinery on the floor. A stairs led up. A flight of steps led down. I followed down, and came to the great water wheel, with its powerful connecting shafts. Here was power—cheap power—such as had been used to grind men's food for centuries. I heard the water trickling beneath the wheel.

As I came back upstairs the bell on the door jangled again. The miller had come in. He greeted me with a smile upon his broad, kind mouth.

"I came to see if you had bought your buckwheat yet," said I, "but I am interested in this mill. How old is it?"

"I'm a new man here," he said, "but I understand that it's more'n a hundred years old. Of course it's been remodeled at different times. The wheel we're using now is made of steel, set in crete. But the principle is the same. The storage pond fills up at night and runs the mill all day. I haven't started 'er yet this morning. Want to see it go?"

I said I did and he opened the millrace gate. The water in larger stream, poured over the mighty wheel. Slowly it turned. The machinery became alive. The miller stood amid the whir of grinding wheels, with a halo of dust about his head, and filled a sack with meal. In his floury apron and close white cap, I thought how typical he looked, and what a clean and wholesome business milling is.

Where Shall They Learn About Good?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I DONT KNOW what we can do about it, nor even what we ought to do about it, but it seems to me dreadful that our children should grow up without any spiritual instruction.

Mind you, I'm not saying "religious instruction" for it's plain that any effort to provide such courses in our public schools would start endless, bitter controversy. But it's appalling that youngsters should be allowed to grow from infancy to maturity without some sort of daily contact with the things of the spirit—some daily glimpse of those shining visions which have lifted men above the beasts.

Things weren't any better a generation ago, as far as the schools went. But the whole atmosphere of life was different. There was a sort of social conscience then—a general attitude about honesty and courage, purity and tenderness, that no child could escape.

As if goodness were a going business in which everyone was a partner. It wasn't confined to the "nice" people or the "nice" places. It was everywhere. You couldn't any more dodge that side of life than you could dodge the air or the rain.

* * *

Our Social Center.

Of course, most of us went to Sunday school, too. Sunday school took the place of all sorts of modern diversion—movies and automobiling. It was our social as well as our religious center. But I doubt if, in the long run, it was any more instrumental in civilizing us youngsters than the general social attitude.

I'm always amazed when I read those explosive denunciations of youthful criminals. What else can we expect? We've trained them since they were babies, to function in a purely materialistic world. We've advocated shrewdness, power—eulogized men and women who "made good."

And to the simple mind of the average tenement child, what can "making good" possibly mean but making money? Lots of money—as rapidly and ruthlessly as possible. Then why, I repeat, should we be surprised when that child puts our preaching into practice at his or her first opportunity?

* * *

Sense of Loss.

Or the girls. We're horrified when a girl "goes wrong." But attend any movie house for one month and try to imagine yourself into the mind of 12-year-old Bessie creeping away from the cluttered sordidness of some modern apartment to dream of Prince Charming. What answer does the modern film give to that young dream? Who lives in those glamorous penthouses, those enchanting villas—and how do they contrive to live there? And how does it all add up for shabby little Bess?

And the story of Jesus—a child growing up and never knowing of His friendliness—how brave He was—how kind to little children. Never knowing Him!—even the thought of it fills me with a sense of loss. Not religious at all. But a terrible lack, like never having had a friend or a dog. Or never seeing the mountains—or the sea! Yet there are thousands of youngsters like that. It's getting so that it's odd to find one who does know Him!

* * *

Something We Can Do.

All these amazing new departments of education—all these floods and floods of scientific imagination—but never a word—in all the day of that lovely, mysterious world of the spirit which lies like a shining sheath around the small dark kernal of our materialism. Then we wonder why they're little barbarians — these babies of our—charming, intelligent but spiritually blind, deaf and dumb!

Isn't there something we can do—we owe the ones? Get together, somehow—lay aside our intolerance and suspicion, remembering only the small ones cradled in those tender arms, and the stern voice crying down the years—"WHOSOEVER SHALL OFFEND ONE OF THESE LITTLE ONES . . . IT IS BETTER FOR HIM THAT A MILLSTONE WERE HANGED ABOUT HIS NECK AND HE WERE CAST INTO THE SEA."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The wailing moan of a clarinet insinuates itself into the shrill, mixed confusion of Manhattan afer dark. . . .

What does this mean? Don't ask foolish questions, honey. You know Ted Lewis is in town as well as I do.

You see Ted Lewis one day, and he goes out of town, and maybe six months later you run into him in Omaha, or Pierre, or Macon—big towns and little towns—and always he packs them in.

I think if you analyze it you will find that Ted is the only big name attraction that was famous 20 years ago who still flies high without benefit of the cinema or radio. I think he did make a picture once. And now and then you pick him up on the airways. But there is never a sustained program. He never receives the push of a coast-to-coast publicity campaign such as the movies put on.

* * *

BUT Ted Lewis goes on dragging down his $5,000 a week. How does he do it? He can't sing a lick, and yet who can sell a song better than Ted Lewis? Al Siegel calls this "synchronizing personality to song." Al Siegel says anybody can sell a song, whether you can sing or not, if you adapt the song to your own personality. You must listen to Siegel when he makes statements like this because he has had too much success to discount him. He found Ethel Merman at a party one night, singing. She was terrible and no one paid any attention to the broken-hearted girl who, embarrassed, was sobbing behind the piano when Siegel found her. So Siegel said, "Do as I tell you." And she listened to him. He taught her style—a style that suited her personality.

Another of Siegel's finds is Dorothy Lamour. Still another is Martha Raye. His latest is Patricia Ellis, whom you will find at the Casa Manana, on the same bill with Ted Lewis.

But we digress. Consider the success the late O. O. McIntyre enjoyed. He never got away from the homey qualities. Yet Ted Lewis, home town of Circleville, Ohio, is just as famous as is McIntyre's Ohio town. He will tell you, "Me, I'm a farmer at heart. You ought to see my farm near Circleville."

His old battered high hat with the silver lining is as much a symbol as Charlie Chaplin's mustache, or Durante's nose. It sits at a perilously rakish angle, as always, on the head that was once black but now is quite gray. But Ted still has all of his hair. He has his pep and his enthusiasm. He always gives the old college try.

* * *

I THINK it will be a sad day indeed when old Dr. Sunshine decides to turn his band over to someone else and seek the comfort of his Buckeye farm. Maybe he won't ever do this. I have a hunch that he won't. Twenty years of roaming up and down country, sleeping in elegant hotels, sleeping in drafty hotels, eating in railroad stations, dining in exclusive clubs, shaking hands with bums, shaking hands with big shots does something to a man that he can't ever quite shake off. Good fire horses are like that. They don't ever quit till they drop in their harness.

I was walking in 50th street the other night and the nostalgic wail of a clarinet came floating out into the street. The wind caught it and blew it back into Seventh avenue. I followed, and walked through a door, and Ted Lewis was there, showing the boys how it was done.

Mighty glad to have you back, Ted. Stay a long time. And when you go away, stay only a little while and then hurry back.

AFRAID TO MARRY + + +

CHAPTER 19.

JUDY SAID "come in" when the knock sounded on her door. She expected a white-aproned maid to ask if she might help her unpack. Instead Abbey Boland herself stepped into the room.

Abbey was beautiful. Judy granted her that instantly. Her hair was honey-gold. Her eyes were dark purple under long, curly black lashes. She was taller than average, and quite slender. Her dress was a twilight lavender, and slippers of darker hue were on her feet. Her slim silver bracelets were set with amethysts.

The dream lasted until she spoke. Her voice was too high, too rapid, as though it hurried to overtake a phrase which always ran ahead.

"You're Miss Rogers, of course," Abbey stated instead of asking. "Are you comfortable?"

"Oh, yes, very. It's a delightful room. I like the view of the Sound and the open wood fire is too tempting to make me stir."

Abbey dropped down in a chair, and when she did she looked very young, almost scared.

"There's a lot of work to be done. We are having almost a continuous house party until after the wedding, so there are sleighing parties when the snow comes, skating and skiing. Oh, yes, the swimming pool is an indoor affair, with cabanas and sun lamps on the terrace. We loaf there a great deal. We have tea about 5 before the fire in the library, or down in the game room . . . You'll learn your way around. I'll go over lists and plans with you tomorrow. Is 10 o'clock too early?"

"Ten o'clock is fine. I'd like to get organized."

"We are having a dinner tomorrow night, and I want favors for the guests. I've a whole box of possible things you can sort. If you knew the people you could decide better."

"Maybe I do know them," Judy said gently.

"Oh, of course. I almost forgot that you are THE Judy Rogers. Maybe you'll want to come to dinner instead of eating alone."

Judy's head came up swiftly, as though it had worn a crown and would wear one some day soon again. "No, thank you. I'm here to do a job, that's all."

She wondered if she fancied the relief on Abbey Boland's thin face. She detected a snobbish trait in the wealthy girl, one which refused to admit that a paid worker in the household had social position. Something intangible passed between the two girls. Judy felt it. It might have been a challenge. Maybe it was a warning. She didn't know.

"If you need anything just ring for Myra. She's the maid in this section of the house," Abbey said, and excused herself.

From below Judy heard laughter, light voices, music. She hung her dresses, unpacked her books, took a bath and brushed her hair. She climbed into the wide bed but could not sleep. Presently she got up, put on a skirt and warm sweater, and a brown tam on her curly hair, and slipped down the back stairway. She let herself out and walked in the cold blue air, throwing her head to the stars, looking far, far across the Sound. In the house she felt like a prisoner. Under the dark canopy of the silver-bright stars she was free. This beauty she knew.

* * *

She came back in an hour tired, sleepy, at peace. The side door was locked. She rang a bell but no one answered. There were lots of doors, she decided. One of them would be open. She crossed to the south side of the house, but there was no response at the two doors there. She found another one, and rang in vain. Apparently the servants were busy elsewhere, or callers were using the wide front door.

She had avoided that entrance purposely, fearing she might run into the dinner party. Well, there was no help. She would avert her face if she met anyone and slip unobtrusively up the stairs.

She knew she had made a mistake the moment she entered. The dinner party, about to go to the nearby club for further festivities, was assembled in the wide hall.

Someone gave the signal.

"Judy!"

"Judy Rogers, where have you been?"

"Hi, Judy, welcome back! The town's been dead without you."

They surrounded her. They pulled her this way and that. They let her know how they welcomed her.

The young people whom she did not know gazed at her with eager interest. She sensed that she had stolen the limelight. It was funny. She, Judy Rogers, working for a living, was standing in the middle of this dressed-up group, wearing an old brown sweater and tam, and wondering how Abbey was taking it.

* * *

Abbey had made no sound. She stood aloof, lips narrowed, eyebrows drawn, watching.

A young man pulled her forward. "Say, Abbey, what do you mean keeping Judy shut up! Don't let her pull that "I-want-to-be-alone" stuff on you. She's the friendliest girl in the east. Remember the time at the Sigma Nu dance, Judy . . . ?"

The inner circle closed around Judy. The young people who belonged to society as it appeared in the blue book and the social register lined up with Judy. The others, not in it themselves, and closer friends of Abbey's, made her cohort.

Into the midst of the gaiety, a tall, dark young man came. His eyes were lazy, amused, a trifle cynical. He had a small black mustache, a disarming smile, dark hair, a stubborn chin.

"What is it?" he asked.

"Judy!" Two of the young men told him. "In person! Judy Rogers!" They turned to Judy. "It's Count Phillippe."

(To Be Continued).

CHORAL GROUPS WIN CRAWFORD COUNTY HONORS

Male Chorus Victor in First Prize in State Event, Grange Group Also Honored.

BUCYRUS — Two Crawford county singing groups were honored in contests held Wednesday night, one in Columbus and the other a county contest held in Wyandot county, Eden Center.

Bucyrus Male Chorus achieved prestige at the National Dairy show in Columbus when the singers were awarded first prize in the class B men's choruses in the Buckeye State Music jubilee. In recognition of the honor, Dr. A. D. Bumstead, director and founder of the group, was awarded a silver plaque by Ramon S. Crum, promotion manager of the jubilee. A cash prize of $60 will also be pretened along with the plaque.

A "Stephen Foster" program by a mixed chorus representing all Crawford county granges, won the championship of the district in the county contest. Singers were directed by Miss Mildred Billikam, director of music at Mt. Zion school.

The chorus is now eligible to enter the regional contest to be held later this fall, the place of the contest to be announced later. State Grange is sponsoring the contests.

Those attending were Charles F. Bonebrake, August Christman, Louis H. Hagamier, Fred E. Metzger, Clarence C. Metzger, George Matthew, Victor Nussbaum, J. C. Reiff, W. E. Seeger, Elmer E. Seits, George Trautman and Philip Trautman. Those unable to attend tend are Charles J. Bonath, B. F. Cours, George F. Donnenwirth, J. V. Farrell, J. E. Faulkner, H. V. Flickinger, Roy H. Hayman, O. WAITS SENTENCE

Ashlander Pleads Guilty in Jeromesville Accident.

ASHLAND — Sentence was deferred until Saturday when Robert Finley, 18, of Lee avenue, pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving brought in common pleas court Thursday morning. Finley was charged with reckless driving in a case in which Virginia Shafer, 11, of Jeromesville, had both legs broken.

The Shafer girl was struck by Finley's automobile while walking on Plum street, Jeromesville, to Sunday school last Sunday. The court was informed by Prosecutor A. Ross Silverling that the child had also sustained internal injuries. After being taken into custody this morning by Sheriff Dale Hammond, Finley stated that he did not wish to wait for the three days allowed before a plea is entered.

SUIT SETTLED

BUCYRUS—The $10,000 damage suit of Lydia Frankenfield, administratrix of the estate of her husband, Clarence Frankenfield against Edgar Heiber, which went on trial before a jury Monday, were settled Thursday and dismissed. Terms of the settlement were not made public.

Mrs. Frankenfield sought damages for the death of her husband, who died of injuries received in an automobile collision with the defendant, near Lykens last year.

Conversing with a man who always agrees with you is about as monotonous as talking to an echo.

FUNERAL SET

LOUDONVILLE—Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday at the Swank funeral home for Elmer J. Sprang, 64, who died unexpectedly Tuesday following a heart attack.

Rev. G. H. Volpitto, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be in Loudonville cemetery. The body will be at the Sprang home until time for the services.

HEARS MOTION

Ashland Court Decides Today in Civil Service Case.

ASHLAND—Judge Philip Weiland of the Morrow county court of common pleas was scheduled to hear today the motion for change of venue in the trial of Don B. Scoles, state highway department garage, foreman, under indictment for violation of the civil service laws. Weiland was assigned here by Chief Justice of the State Supreme Court Carl V. Weygandt. Two other cases will be decided upon by the judge.

It was not determined what time the cases would be heard. A motion to have the Soles' trial removed to some other county was made because with general discussion of the case and wide publicity given the grand jury's investigation of alleged "shakedown" of the highway department employes it was claimed Soles could not be given a fair trial here.

If a change of venue is granted, the affidavit of prejudice filed against Judge C. C. Chapman will have no bearing because the change in venue would automatically keep an Ashland judge from presiding.

Ashland College Students Oppose War, Survey Shows

ASHLAND — Ashland college students showed a deep aversion for war in their answers to a questionnaire submitted to them this week by the Ashland Collegian, campus weekly, in co-operation with a nationwide poll to determine American youth's attitude toward war.

Students of the college would object to fighting on foreign soil, though they would fight if the United States were invaded. They are optimistic about the ability of this country to keep out of war in Europe, they have definite ideas on what they would do to avoid the draft and they would not consider any man a slacker for refusing to enlist. Strenuous objections would be put up against their brothers or sweethearts going to war.

"No" said 142 students to the question "would you go to foreign soil to fight if the United States declared war?" while only 44 answered yes to this question and several stated it would depend on the cause.

However, 164 of the students would fight if the United States were invaded by a foreign power, while only 27 would refuse and a few others stated it would depend upon the cause.

"Yes" said 128 to the question "Do you believe the United States will be able to keep out of a war in Europe?" while 56 said "no" and others declared it would depend on the issue involved.

Varied answers were given to the question "What methods would you use if you wanted to avoid a draft?" "Get married," said 20 students; "wouldn't avoid it," said 71; "religion," said 10; while nine answered "conscience," and five said flatly that they would refuse.

GALION—The date set for the Halloween dance of the Galion Elks' lodge is Wednesday, Oct. 26, it was announced at last night's lodge meeting. W. R. Hessenauer presided. A communication from the advisory council of the Galion Nursery school stating financial needs of the school was referred to the social and community welfare committee. The first of the pinochle tournament series was opened Thursday night. Six tables were in play.

* * *

Mrs. E. J. Boyer entertained her club associates for a dessert-bridge Thursday evening at Bemiller's. Three tables were filled for card games at the Bemiller home.

* * *

SEGAR, POPEYE'S CREATOR, DIES

Cartoonist Who Made World Laugh at Sailorman, Had Eventful Career.

health. With him were Mrs. Segar and their children, Marie, 14, and Tom, 10. The family had lived here 10 years while Segar's strip began to appear in more American newspapers than any other comic.

There were more than 600 licensed products of Popeye and Crystal City, Tex., spinach center of America, recently erected a huge statue of the scrawny, ham-armed sailor.

The jutting jawed, pipe smoking, one-eyed Popeye, who claimed to be the greatest fighter and strongest man in the world appeared more by accident than design on Jan. 17, 1929, and soon made Segar famous.

Born in Chester, Ill., Dec. 8, 1894, Segar as a youth operated a motion picture projection machine, played trap drums for dances, was a photographer in spare time and dressed shop windows. He became a house painter and when he heard of salaries paid cartoonists, sent a drawing to a St. Louis newspaper. It came back.

Segar spent $20 on a correspondence course and went to Chicago for his diploma. R. F. Outcault, famed then as creater of "Buster Brown and Tige" got Segar a job on the Chicago Herald drawing "Charlie Chaplin's comic capers."

The paper closed after two years and the recently married Segar was out of a job. In 1917 he began drawing a local strip, "looping the loop" and was part time dramatic critic for the Chicago Evening American.

Three weeks after Segar went to New York in 1919, he started "Thimble Theater" for King Features Syndicate. First members of the cast were Olive Oyl and Ham Gravy. There were plenty of gags, satire, comedy and nonsense, but no great following. Then Segar's pen shaped Popeye and millions loved it.

SHELBY—Without relief funds for October, city council will be faced with the problem of obtaining additional revenue to finance the relief program in Shelby Monday night.

LIFE BEGINS AT NOON FOR 'DEB'

Newest Glamour Girl of N. Y. Society Only 17 but She Gets Around.

"Those figures," have included published estimates of five to eight millions Brenda is supposed to have inherited from her father, the late Frank Duff Frazier of New York and Palm Beach.

* * *

Even if true, of course, such a fortune wouldn't send her necessarily to the head of the deb class—as far as money goes.

For there's a granddaughter of financier J. P. Morgan, Frances Pennoyer, and also a daughter of banker Winthrop W. Aldrich. Mary Aldrich, on the rostrum of this year's debs.

But money aside, Brenda won't have to worry about popularity. Her personality will take care of that. She has an open, interested mind. An easy, slightly aloof manner in conversation. And a poise that comes from studying with blue-bloods at Miss Hewitt's and Miss Porter's, traveling in upper-crust circles in New York, Palm Beach and Nassau, and being dated up nearly every night since she started going out last Christmas.

What does she think about, talk about and enjoy?

"I'm not what you'd call very practical. Can't sew. But I can scramble eggs," she says with one of her disarming but rare giggles.

Her days ordinarily begin at noon, unless she has morning appointments. She's out pretty late every evening and thinks it's good to sleep all she can in the morning.

* * *

Is she looking forward to her debut?

Enthusiastically she has planned for it only "very vaguely," however.

And she'll dress in white.

"Everybody tells me I look best in white," she says. "So I'll probably wear a white dress—with a large skirt, not hoop. Strapless, maybe."

How does she like debbing?

Gets a big kick out of it. But not the little-girl type of thrill. The stimulation of being a full-fledged young woman—with lots of beaux, carefully-planned parties, and people who pay her discreet attention.

Drafts Program Following Survey; 10 Buildings Are Without Fire Doors.

The installation of auxiliary fire alarms in eight buildings and new type fire doors in ten of the schools are the major items listed in a recommendation being drafted today by Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger, for presentation to the board of education.

The findings, result of a survey made of the city schools by city and state fire authorities, will be presented to the board with the recommendation that installations be made in connection with the $1,000,000 school building program which is scheduled to get under way Oct. 29, the chief said.

Chief Seeburger said he and Deputy State Fire Marshal Fred Galley who made a three-day inspection of the school buildings, found that eight buildings were without any fire alarm boxes, while 10 of the buildings were not equipped with fire doors with bar latches.

He said the absence of both these items was a double hazard since they were missing in the oldest buildings. Newer schools were found to be adequately equipped because of the recent construction, he added.

He explained that 10 of the schools had knobs on exit doors instead of the drop bar latch now required by law.

The buildings where the condition existed the chief said was John Simpson Junior high, Bowman, Hedges, Western avenue, Carpenter, Brinkerhoff, Bushnell, Newman, West Fifth and Prospect.

The schools which he listed as depending entirely upon a telephone to sound a fire alarm are Western avenue, Carpenter, Brinkerhoff, Bushnell, Newman, West Fifth, Prospect and Woodland.

Tall Fish Tale?

It might seem to be a tall fish tale at first, but such isn't the case. A heavy gale off the North Carolina coast opened the mullet season and blew a tremendous harvest of fish right into the nets of fishermen. This little North Carolina boy is holding up a 10-pound roe mullet and all around him is a portion of a 30,000-pound haul.

PAIR 'SITTING OUT' $10 FINE

Clevelanders Sentenced on Two Driving Counts.

Two Cleveland men were "sitting out" a $10 fine in jail today, one for operating a motor vehicle without a license and the other for allowing an unlicensed operator to drive his car.

They are Louis Nisbet, the driver and George Nokes, owner of the machine, both colored, who pleaded guilty to the charges in municipal court this morning.

The pair was arrested on U. S. route 42, north of Mansfield yesterday by state highway patrolman C. B. Tieben who testified that he stopped the car when he observed one of the men leaning out of the machine with the door open.

200 AT ASHLAND CHURCH SESSION

Rev. Corwin Gives Conference Sermon; Bucyrus Pastor Elected Secretary.

More than 200 Methodist pastors and laymen attended the semi-annual conference of the Mansfield district of the Methodist Episcopal church yesterday at the First Methodist church at Ashland.

Other speakers were Dr. Jesse J. Wyeth, Mt. Vernon, former district superintendent, Dr. Joseph E. Priestley, Wooster, conference director of religious education, and Rev. Arthur Staples, new pastor of the Shelby church.

FACTORY HEAD STILL ON STAND

Ideal Official Testifies for Third Day, Denies All CIO Charges.

In a flat denial of CIO charges of unfair labor practices, Otto Fink, superintendent of the Ideal Electric and Manufacturing company plant, testified today that no foreman at the plant had ever been instructed to dismiss a worker because of the employe's affiliation with a labor union.

Fink was on the stand this morning for the third consecutive day as a defense witness in the National Labor Relation board's hearing at the courthouse.

Local 705 of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers' union, which filed the charges against the Ideal company, contended that workers were laid off or permanently dismissed because of the company's alleged opposition to CIO union activities among workers.

Fink asserted that Roy A. Conn, a former employe and one of the workers named in the union's charges, was among at least 25 workers who were laid off last winter when plant operations slowed down. He said the company had been willing to re-instate Conn when business conditions warranted paying him the expert welder's pay he demanded.

At least eight and possibly as many as 25 employes and officials of the Ideal company will be called to testify by defense counsel, it was said today.

The hearing opened nearly two weeks ago and may continue well into next week, attorneys said.

THIS IS SWELL! WHAT'S IN IT?
PORK AND VEAL WITH SAVORY ONION SEASONING
U-M-M-M-
SWEET POTATO BISCUIT CRUST MADE WITH Spry
BOY, OH BOY, HAVE IT OFTEN

EASY SPRY WAY gives lighter cakes, flakier pastry, crisper fried foods

WHY is the Spry way easy? Because Spry's so creamy! "Mixes like magic," say cooking experts for 281 home-making schools. Makes light, easy work of mixing cake and pastry. Takes the disagreeable part out of frying, for pure ALL-vegetable Spry fries without smoke or unpleasant odor.

And you get such wonderful results the Spry way. Crisp, delicate fried foods, so digestible a child can eat them. Tender, flaky pastry. Light, delicate cakes.

SWEET POTATO PORK AND VEAL PIE

2 small onions, sliced
¼ cup Spry
½ pound pork
1 pound veal
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
2½ cups boiling water
1 cup sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup Spry
1 cup mashed sweet potatoes
3 tablespoons milk (about)

Cook onions slowly in melted Spry (¼ cup) until yellow. Remove onions. Cut pork and veal into ½-inch cubes and roll in mixture of ¼ cup flour and 2 teaspoons salt. Brown in hot Spry. (You get a delicate onion flavor this way, evenly distributed.) Add boiling water and simmer until meat is tender (about 45 minutes).

Sift 1 cup flour, baking powder, and ½ teaspoon salt together. Cut in ½ cup Spry. (Takes so little time with this triple-creamed shortening!) Add sweet potatoes and enough milk to make a soft dough. Knead lightly about 20 seconds, roll to ½-inch thickness, and cut with biscuit cutter.

Pour hot meat mixture into 8-inch casserole greased with Spry and arrange biscuits on top. (Add onions to meat, if desired.) Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 25 minutes. Serves 6.

(All measurements in this recipe are level)

NO PAY, PENSION OFFICES FACE CLOSING THREAT

Payless Payday Looms for State Employes; Ferguson Renews U. S. Plea.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Operations of the division of aid for the aged were threatened with complete shutdown today unless funds are available tomorrow to pay employes of the division, State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said today.

This information was given to Ferguson by Wray Bevens, chief of the old age division at a conference in which Ferguson sought to have Bevens intervene in the argument between Governor Davey and the Social Security board.

Ferguson said that Bevens agreed to confer with a representative of the Social Security board if the board would send an aid into Columbus. Ferguson said that he would telephone Arthur G. Altmeyer, chairman of the board, this afternoon and request that the representative be sent here.

No Pay, No Work.

Bevens told Ferguson that he would not allow employes to work without pay and this morning Bevens was going over the situation with Mayson Hayhurst, office manager in the state auditor's office. Bevens also said he would be glad to have a federal representative look into the reform in the division which he has instituted since he became chief in accordance with the board's demands.

Ferguson said that he suggested that Bevens write a letter to the board telling them he would comply with their instructions and Bevens said that Henry J. Berrodin had already done that so he did not believe it necessary for him to do it.

Bevens succeeded Berrodin after Governor Davey ordered the latter's dismissal because he agreed to comply with the board's reform recommendations after the board charged that Davey used the old age division to further his political interests.

Ferguson went to Washington last week in an attempt to have the board rescind its original order temporarily holding up federal aid in the pension program, but he was unsuccessful in getting a promise that the funds would be restored.

The auditor, upon his return, made plans to start writing warrants for the state's share of the pension program on Monday, Oct. 17. Unless federal money is available by that time, the state's 110,000 pensioners will receive an average of slightly more than $11 instead of the $23 they have been receiving, Ferguson said.

Heavy Wooden Beam Falls Near Elizabeth In Scotland.

DUNDEE, Scotland — (INS) — Queen Elizabeth narrowly escaped serious injury or worse today when a heavy beam of wood became dislodged while she was visiting the Lord Roberts Memorial workshops here and fell within three feet of her.

10-MINUTE CONVICTION

MARYSVILLE—(AP)—It took a Union county jury just 10 minutes to convict Paul Winegardner, 37, of burglarizing the residence of his brother, Frank. He was taken almost immediately to Ohio penitentiary on a one-to-five-year sentence.

EMBEZZLER GETS PAROLE

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — W. Merl Cortner, former employe in the state treasurer's office who was convicted of embezzlement of state funds, was granted a parole from the state penitentiary today by the state parole board, effective Nov. 15.

SUSPENDS FARR

British Board Charges Boxer With Dodging Schmeling Fight.

LONDON — (AP) — The British boxing board of control today suspended the license of Tommy Farr, Welsh heavyweight, for failure to pay $3,750 to Promoter Sydney Hulls.

The board awarded Hulls this amount after Farr was charged with running out on a contract to meet Max Schmeling at Hulls' White City stadium in September, 1937.

PLAN SEAL SALE

Heads of T. B. Groups From 7 Counties Convene Here.

Plans for the sale of Christmas Health Seals in this district were being made today at Westbrook Country club where representatives from seven tuberculosis associations in six counties were holding an all-day meeting.

Posters, seals and other material for the campaign were on display. The campaign opens Thanksgiving day and continues until Christmas.

Dr. R. G. Patterson, secretary of the Ohio State Tuberculosis association, presided and was the speaker. Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, chairman of the Health Seal sale in Richland county, was hostess.

Funds derived from the sale of seals in the county are used to finance the tuberculosis clinics that are conducted at General hospital throughout the year.

PICK 'POPEYE'

Junior Hi-Y Unanimous That He's Their Favorite Comic.

Despite the fact that "Popeye" became an orphan today because of the death last night in California of his creator, E. C. Segar, the "spinakey"-consuming sailor must have had a pleasant sensation of burning about the ears last evening when the Junior Hi-Y voted him their favorite comic.

Forty-two members of the groups held a dinner meeting last evening at the dining room of the Y. M. C. A. and were addressed by J. A. Plumb, advertising manager of the News-Journal on "Newspaper Work."

After a discussion of the various popular cartoon strips of the day, "Popeye The Sailor" was unanimously voted the favorite by all members.

Edward Eisele was program chairman for the evening and Harold Williams, president, had charge of the meeting.

Confession Solves Murder of Indiana College Girl

FIND STUDENT STRANGLED IN HER BEDROOM

Ft. Wayne Police Jail Roomer After Confession Clears Hitch-Hiker Suspect.

(By United Press)

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—Adrian Miller, 31, an engineering student, confessed today the slaying of Alice May Girton, 17, a shy and retiring farm girl who came to the city six weeks ago to attend business college.

Her landlady, Mrs. Lillian Kelly, found her nude body on the floor of her bedroom yesterday. The body was face down, with silk undergarments twisted about the neck. Coroner Walter Kruse said the girl had been criminally attacked and that death had resulted from strangulation.

Miller, whose home is in Racine, Wis., has been attending the Indiana technical college during the past year. He lived in a room adjoining Miss Girton's and early Thursday morning, heard her return home with an escort.

He made his confession to Detective Captain John Taylor.

Walks In Room.

"I stayed up listening to them—I could hear them through the wall," he said. "The fellow left about 3 a. m. and I went over and knocked on her door. She said, 'It's too late.' I walked in anyway.

"The lights were out and I sat on the bed. She didn't say anything. She was sitting in bed with a light robe around her shoulders.

"Then I started to scuffle with her. She resisted and I threw a pillow over her head. I took it off and she was still struggling a little so I put it back. I can't remember anything I did then, but I didn't attack her. I left someway and went back to my room."

He had been only a witness in the case and had attempted to blame Miss Girton's escort, Howard Zimmerman, 18, who hitchhiked here a week ago from Riga, Mich., to seek employment. When first questioned Miller said he had heard scuffling in Miss Girton's room and a few minutes later had heard her escort leave.

Zimmerman said he met Miss Girton in a cafe Monday night. He took her to a movie and then took her to her room.

"We sat on the bed and talked," he said, "and had a pillow fight. She was fully clothed and alive when I left."

Miss Girton was an attractive brunet, one of three daughters of a Winchester, Ind., farmer. Her right arm was slightly deformed as the result of an illness and she was the ward of the Indiana state rehabilitation department which assists crippled persons in obtaining an education.

Detective Taylor had this to say about Miller's alleged confession:

"We let him think we suspected Zimmerman on the strength of his statements," Taylor said. "Then we let him go home but kept a close watch on his movements. Last night he went to bed and we waited until he was asleep. We broke into his room suddenly and got him up, the psychological time, I believed, for questioning. We hurried him to the station and had his admission in 10 minutes."

Draft Broad New Unemployment Attack

Up and Down THE STREET

After a rather lean summer and fall, business picked up yesterday and today for Jimmy Lemley, blind proprietor of the confection stand in the courthouse lobby. With a labor hearing and a trial, which attracted the largest crowd in months, in progress, the courthouse was a beehive of activity.

If you should see the walls of the Mansfield-Leland hotel dining room bulge Saturday, or smoke issuing from the windows, think nothing of it. The Amina club will have its annual "razz" session Saturday noon, wherein members tell each other just what they think of them, and razz them about their errors of the past year. Although little leaks out after the session, there are tales of some mighty exciting verbal battles in past years. The main thing is that you must have a sense of humor and must be able to take it.

* * *

No matter where you turn your dial tonight at 10 o'clock, you'll be pretty sure to pick up the program that launches Community Fund campaigns in 467 cities. But it's not an ordinary program, for on it will be the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra with Jose Iturbi broadcast from that city; a talk by President Roosevelt from Hyde Park and a speech by Charles P. Taft from Providence, R. I., all blended together for the three national networks. And even though Mansfield isn't opening its Community Fund drive, a lot of its supporters and workers will be interested.

* * *

Sign painters can make "typographical" errors, too. Take for instance the big billboard on Ashland road which announces Mansfield as the home of Westinghouse in big letters The name of the city was spelled "Manseield." It was only the mistake of an E instead of an F, but it brought dozens of calls and not a few razzings. But it didn't take long to remedy.

BULKLEY, TAFT DEBATE AGAIN

Recognition of New General Welfare Responsibilities Topic for Tonight.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Political eyes of the state turned to Dayton today where U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley argues in debate with Robert A. Taft, Republican candidate for Bulkley's seat, in the second of a series at 8 o'clock tonight.

Declared the winner in the opening debate at Marietta last Saturday night, Taft was faced with finding the right answers to a subject of Bulkley's selection: "The New Deal's recognition of new responsibilities for the general welfare."

The debate will be held in the Dayton Coliseum, which seats 5,800 persons and was expected to draw a larger crowd than the Marietta meeting. It will be broadcast through radio station WSAI, Cincinnati, and possibly other stations.

Bulkley warmed up to his debate subject last night in a radio address from Cleveland when he said:

"Business is better, production has increased, profits are higher, dividends greater, and the general outlook far more optimistic."

Then he described the new measures the New Deal has taken to protect business and how the farmer has benefitted.

Labor, too, he said has made greater advances than ever before and he pointed out the "great increases" in net incomes of all classes of income taxpayers since the beginning of the Roosevelt administration.

U. S. OFFICIALS SEEK PLANS TO OPEN UP JOBS

Congress Expected to Act on Legislation to Restore Work Opportunities.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Informed persons in the administration disclosed today that a broad new attack on the problem of unemployment was in the making.

This may result, they said, in presentation to congress early next year of a correlated program for restoring work opportunities by improving conditions in the nation's basic durable goods industries. Details have not been made known.

At the same time it was learned that a major objective of the monopoly investigating committee would be to uncover business practices and faults in the nation's economic structure which, in the words of one member, "cause conditions in which people can't get jobs."

Long Range Solution.

The committee's work probably will be concerned with a long range solution to the problem, but some administration officials are more interested in starting during the winter.

These officials contend that no substantial improvement in business can be expected until the nation's estimated 10,000,000 or more jobless begin returning to useful employment in private industry.

They say a sound prosperity must be based on restoring prosperous conditions to the heavy goods industry. This can be brought about, they argue, by setting the railroads on their feet so that they again can become big customers, by further stimulating building construction, by encouraging greater automobile production, and in similar ways.

It is their contention that the pickup in 1937 resulted almost entirely from improvements in so-called consumer goods markets, and that it collapsed because these improvements were not supported by advances in the durable goods industries.

Aubrey Williams, deputy WPA administrator, said yesterday after a White House call:

"Employment is increasing everywhere, and the outlook is brighter than at any time in a year. I look for a steady increase in employment all over the United States."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pension Schemes Unfair To Orphans; Deadbeats, Loafers Fare Too Well

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Aside from the economic question, the newest California age retirement plan, the one called $30-Every-Thursday, is wrong for the same reason that the Townsend scheme was no good.

Both are unfair because any deadbeat, loafer and rummy of either sex, on reaching a certain birthday, would be instantly raised to equality with those who always have made a conscientious effort to lift their weight, keep off the town and carry their pints

* * *

Both schemes also are cruelly unfair to orphans and half-orphans, who would stand to receive less benefit or none. Orphans have a hard enough time of it at best, and it seems impossible that the great, sentimental heart of America will ever tax a poor, lonely orphan to provide pensions for the parents of his more fortunate neighbor sufficient to permit that neighbor to retire to a life of assured ease.

That neighbor is sufficiently blessed in having one or more of his dear old parents still with him.

In view of the divorce rate of the last 30 years, some fairly youngish citizens of our land not only would have their regular parents to draw pensions but one or two step-parents, as well. The family pickings in the way of pensions would come to $120 a week, or $480 a month, under the new plan, or $800 a month on the Townsend Plan.

* * *

A citizen with two parents on the pay line, his own dear mother and father, and his wife's own dear mother and father, even without any step-parents on either side, would still have $120 a week under the Thursday plan or $200 a week under the Townsend Plan, on which to rely for the support of himself and family if he and his loving helpmeet each were an only child. But the people next door, if they were both complete orphans, the husband as well as the wife, would have nobody to draw any pensions.

My stand on that, in paraphrase of Eugene Field, is doggone a critter, anyway, as does an orphan or half-orphan dirt.

Aside from the obvious orphan and half-orphan oppression concealed in these proposals, there also is a danger of contaminating the beautiful flower of filial devotion with sordid motives or of placing loving sons and daughters in a false position.

A loving son or daughter might have the purest motives that ever stirred an honest, loving heart in coddling the health and whims of his or her dear old parents. But the neighbors, particularly the orphans, would be sure to suspect base purposes.

* * *

In order to avoid such suspicion, honest sons and daughters would be driven to dissemble their love, and there you have a danger of converting the American people into a nation of mother and father beaters. Is it worth it?

But the lack of a merit system is an objection just as great. After all, the mere fact of a person's having lived 50 or 60 years is no wet sponge run over the slate of a long life of dishonesty, improvidence, laziness and intemperance. All Americans have known contemporaries who simply would not pay their honest debts, who would not try to provide for their own old age, who wouldn't work or keep sober.

It penalizes diligence and all the virtues of citizenship to promise all such equal security and luxury at the early age of 50 with those who have always done their best.

It would require a report card system to keep the score of eligibility, but surely there should be superior rewards on graduation day, whether the 50th or 60th birthday, for those who have consistently got "A" in effort and no worse than an average of "B plus" in sobriety.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—In this land of silk and phoney you get accustomed to thinking most big movie people are millionaires. At least, you think, they have a firm grip on their first half-million.

So we all laughed, a little more than a year ago, when Tay Garnett sat down at the piano and twiddled off a tune about a serious round-the-world movie expedition in his yawl, Athene.

"Going to work, eh?" we all laughed.

"Yeh, work," said Tay.

"Heh, heh," we chuckled. "Work. That's a good one. But will you please say that with a twinkle in your eye, like the song?"

Tay obligingly twinkled. He usually does, anyway, being the son of one William Muldrough and slightly Irish. So we land-bound oafs stood on the docks and watched the slick Athene cleave a clean path toward the open sea.

* * *

Well, Tay came back, and it seems that he did work. He's keeping it up over at Walter Wanger's place now, whipping up a piece of celluloid called "Trade Winds." He has Fredric March, Joan Bennett, Ralph Bellamy, Ann Sothern and Robert Elliott acting out and filling in a story that Tay photographed on his trip.

It was just a "pleasure cruise," but—

"I gambled practically everything I owned to make it. Went in hock, and came back broke with a bill for back income tax waiting for me," Tay grinned today. "That boat had a complete film laboratory on board—and you don't fix one of those up with peanuts. The trip, all told, set me back about $170,000—but I think it's going to be worth it."

He brought back about 60,000 feet of film, exposed in various parts of the world—"and every foot of it," he said, "is going to be useful in this picture or in the next one I make. That's to be 'World Cruise,' and I've got the story for that one, too."

* * *

Garnett set out with a fairly complete shooting script of "Trade Winds"—he's the author—to go by. He shot backgrounds that he would need for his story of a San Francisco girl accused of murder and pursued through the Orient by a heel of a detective. He wrote that kind of story—mostly a "chase"—for a definite reason.

Like all directors, Tay Garnett wants to be his own producer. It's tough for a director to get backing for his independent production efforts. The money-lenders lend to those who HAVE produced, not to those who'd like to. So Tay's password—he hopes—will be "Trade Winds," done for Wanger.

"There's been a great deal of process photography used in pictures," Tay explains, "but I don't believe its full possibilities have been realized. I'm hoping that 'Trade Winds'—utilizing some of those backgrounds we got on the trip—will demonstrate something new in the field. If it does, then I think I'll be set to make 'World Cruise' on my own.

Process photography — which really "brings the world" to serve as a Hollywood stage—is a subject most movie producers avoid discussing. Garnett's idea is to use "process" so convincingly that the fans, even if they know how it's done, will only applaud the more.

"So you all thought the trip was just for fun, huh?" he laughed. "Well, I ran out of marbles in England and I had to stop there long enough to pick up some more—to get the boat back home! Oh, I've retrieved now — but that 'pleasure cruise' was the biggest gamble I've ever made."

Brinkerhoff Parents Hear Talk By J. H. Gongwer Thursday

"Our Constitution" was the title of the address given by J. H. Gongwer at the meeting of the Brinkerhoff P. T. A. last night at the school. He contrasted the British and American constitutions by stating that the former is unwritten while the latter is written.

In England law takes precedence over government and the emphasis is on individual rights, while the constitution is an instrument of resolution, states rights are supreme, and there is no individual autocratic rights, he pointed out.

By way of summary Attorney Gongwer said that it takes constand vigilance to protect the democratic form of government and that democracy is most threatened by ignorance and indifference.

Lemoine Derr, accompanied by Miss Louise Krause, sang "Hills of Home" and "The Nomad."

Mrs. A. J. Reynolds, representative of the Mansfield Garden club, spoke on the park commission plan, and Mrs. D. C. Cole spoke in behalf of the Maple Lake association and South park. She announced a meeting to be held Oct. 21 at 7:30 p. m. at Brinkerhoff school on this question.

C. L. Mitchell spoke in behalf of the half-mill levy for the support of tuberculosis patients in the county. Mrs. J. B. Lindley was the hostess.

Officers of the club in addition to Mr. Gibson are: Robert Black, vice president; Miss Thelma Shaffer, secretary; A. O. Dysart, treasurer; C. C. Secrist, principal; Mrs. Fred Troll, adult education chairman; Barney Banks, legislative chairman; Mrs. Banks, membership chairman; Zane A. Wilson, program; Mrs. L. A. Rondel, publications; and Mrs. H. F. Leppert, publicity.

The evening affair was another dessert bridge for 12 guests. Guests were seated at three small tables centered with single lighted blue tapers. Fifty-Fifty Way Leads To Contentment

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.
One of a Series.

What Makes Marriage Successful?

Those who crave the seat of power in domestic life, and feel entitled to be a dictator in the home should never marry. After marriage, it's absurd to think any man or woman can lead the free, untrammeled life he or she led before.

If a nation can't exist half slave and half free, neither can a marriage. Marital slaves have their little dashes for liberty, their escapes, their grapevine news agencies, their secret runways, even as slaves have always managed these things.

A slave will always pit his wits against a tyrant of either sex, though the tyrant hugs the delusion of blind obedience. The happiest marriages are those in which a husband or wife feels free to be natural, where there is no editing or blue penciling of another's individuality. Even a little joke at the expense of one's life partner in a sane household is greeted with laughter rather than sulks or tears.

Money is the source of nine-tenths of this domestic tyranny. The one who lays down the dollar feels entitled to lay down the law and own the dependent, body and soul.

During the depression, in homes where the husband was dismissed and the wife taken on, because she was willing to work for lower wages, in a good many instances she donned the pants. Even if she didn't, and was generous and tactful, never letting her man feel she was the bread-winner, he imagined himself "belittled."

There is no real love in a slave marriage. Love can't be browbeaten or commanded, bought or sold. The happiest marriages are the fifty-fifty kind, in which husbands and wives—within reasonable limits—are free to be themselves.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I KNEW that Miss Whitlock was as breathless as I as we waited for the sound of the elevator coming up to the floor below us. When it stopped and the housekeeper, who had just descended the stairs, entered it, or so we deduced, and rapidly clanked its way downwards, I saw the door from which the hand had extended closing slowly. But not until it was closely shut did I risk putting my lips to Miss Whitlock's ear and murmuring directions from the side of my mouth, "prison fashion."

"You said a few minutes ago that you were ready for assault and battery or kidnaping," I murmured. "Did you mean it?"

"I'm ready for anything you ask me to do," she returned. "I know you'll be in it yourself as deep as I am. Besides, I've seen enough of your father to realize the position he holds. I'm distinctly not worrying."

Tear Up Sheets.

"Good! Then will you go into the other room and tear up some sheets by the light of your flashlight?"

"I'll get them anyway," she said, but I gripped her arm as she was moving away.

"I think I know the woman who put out those lights," I said, for I already had told her hurriedly of what I had seen from the crack in the door. "If there's anybody with her and the two come out together, we can do nothing. But if she's alone, I want to get her in here without a scream when she comes opposite the door. Is your hand pretty strong?"

Will Play Same Trick?

"I've seen service in psychopathic wards," she retorted a bit grimly. "If I can get my hand clamped over her lips before she can bite, and you can handle her feet long enough to get her inside here, nobody will be the wiser."

"She probably will play the same trick the housekeeper did," I whispered, 'put out the lights and creep around with a flashlight. Therefore, we'll be at an advantage. But we must get her before she reaches the stairs."

"That ought to be mince pie," the nurse said. "Where do you want the gag and bandages?"

"In your bedroom where they'll be handiest," I answered. "Make the gag first. If I need you before you finish all of them, I'll press my flashlight and let it creep along the floor toward Mary's sitting room. Leave the door between the suites open so you can see it."

Knows "Snaky" Arm.

She left me with the noiseless movements which are a part of every good nurse's equipment, and for a few seconds I was glad of the solitude which permitted me to exercise silently the fury which possessed me.

Conquers Savagery.

I had plenty of time to conquer my savagery. Miss Whitlock, her task completed, was back at my side for a full quarter of an hour before the door of the other suite opened again, and the same arm put out the lights in the hall. At the same instant I pulled our door back as far as it would go, and Miss Whitlock put the door stop against it. Then we stood waiting, while the gleam of the advancing flashlight along the floor told us that only one person was approaching.

We waited, tacitly, until she was directly in front of the door. Then we moved swiftly, noiselessly, the nurse pinioning her with strong arms and clapping a hand over her mouth, while I tackled her around the legs. Together we lifted her and carried her to Miss Whitlock's bedroom, I managing to pull the cord of a standing lamp as I passed. Then I spoke with deliberate intent to infuriate still further the astounded and furious woman whose eyes were glaring at us.

"Well! Avis Arlen," I said coolly, "What are you doing here?"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, October 15.

RATHER adverse planetary testimonies are shown for this day, with some unsettling conditions of a surprising or sudden character. These might possibly be attributable to illness, bereavement or some other untoward state of affairs, causing disruption or change of plans, probably a journey. Money seems at stake and the feminine element is at least disconcerting, if not primarily involved.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to have to change their plans or revamp their objectives because of some sudden event or surprising situation. This might be due to illness, sorrow or another disappointing development, in which feminine factors have important part.

A child born on this day may be studious, serious, sensitive, shy and aloof, preferring undisturbed pursuit of rather unusual knowledge to feminine comradeship, although it should not be unfriendly or unkindly.

Here is a fresh fruit canape suitable to serve as appetizer for any meal. Cut cantaloupe meats into one-inch, crossway slices. Place on paper doilies on serving plates. Heap up centers with chilled grapes removed from the stems.

These Dishes Provided Energy

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

WHEN IT'S cold and blowy, the appetite is sharpened and nothing will satisfy it but savory, satisfying, energy-giving foods. And this, to the housewife, means serving a meat dish with plenty of tasty gravy over well-cooked vegetables. And that is the corner-stone of the cold weather meal.

So here we are with some splendid recipes that should find a secure place in your winter food plans.

Flemish Chuck Steak.

Flemish chuck steak is inexpensive but delicious, an important attribute for most of us, no matter the times. A good meal for the whole family with seconds for all, needs five pounds chuck steak, one cup vinegar, two teaspoons salt, two teaspoons allspice, one blade mace, two cups bread crumbs, one beaten egg, one chopped onion, salt and pepper for dressing, mixed powdered herbs (thyme, sage and savory), one tablespoon melted butter. Cook salt, allspice and mace in vinegar five minutes. Pour over roast and let stand covered while preparing dressing.

Combine remaining ingredients for dressing. Gash meat deeply and fill slits with dressing. Remove the meat from the spiced vinegar and brown it in fat. Add enough boiling water to prevent burning and an onion stuck with four cloves. Cover and simmer until tender (two to three hours). Remove meat, thicken gravy with the flour. Pour over meat and serve.

Meat Pie Recipe.

When it's meat pie for dinner, then there's usually little difficulty entailed in bringing the family to the table. Two tablespoons flour, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two teaspoons mustard, two cups meat stock, three cups cooked ham, cut in small pieces, three cups cooked veal, two onions, cut fine, and biscuit dough will serve six. Mix flour, salt, pepper and mustard with a small amount of stock. Gradually add remaining stock. Lay meat and onions alternately in deep baking dish. Add stock mixture. Cover with biscuit dough and bake in hot oven (425F) for 30 minutes.

Curry sauce adds zest to any lamb dish and turns left-over lamb into a banquet dish. Melt three heaping tablespoons butter in top of double boiler over heat. Add three heaping tablespoons of flour and one heaping tablespoon of curry powder. Stir constantly over direct heat until mixture bubbles white. Add two and a half cups scalded milk and stir constantly. Then add one and a half cups of strong meat stock (lamb or pan gravy).

Cauliflower

Make mayonnaise relish, a piquant sauce that is quickly prepared and tasty to serve with green beans, peas, cauliflower, onions or beets. Mix half a cup of stiff mayonnaise with two tablespoons of chopped olives, one tablespoon of chopped pickle.

Simplicity always marks the home wedding.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Helene and Igor are in town again. They have spent a blissful summer, from all accounts, and know they must give a thought to their future. Igor's sister and brother-in-law want them to come to Paris where there is an excellent chance for Igor to enter his brother-in-law's business. But Igor doesn't want to leave this country. He says that it has been a haven to him, and he feels that his life is cast in this land. Helene isn't the decisive type. She has an indifferent nature, is easily influenced, instead of influencing others, and is content to have someone do her thinking for her.

They asked me what I thought, but I told them it was no use asking me. I have decisions of my own to make and have plenty of tall thinking to do. Remember that theatrical producer I met when I was helping with that charity fete at Palm Beach last winter? Well, he is in town and called me up the other day. I wasn't very busy, so I was able to accept his luncheon invitation. Well, he told me that he is going to produce several plays this season and that he has a place for me in his organization as a sort of artistic adviser.

Good Opportunity.

He says that if I prove my worth I have a chance to do great things, since he has a very important organization and is also interested in one of the biggest studios. I told him that at present I could not consider any proposition since this was our busy time, and I felt honor bound not to desert Madame at a time when she needs all the help she can get.

But this man said that his firm was busy at this time of year, too, and that if I am to join the organization, I must make up my mind to do so now. I don't know what to do. I feel sure that I could carve out a real career for myself in a field where there is not so much competition, a field that has not been open to women until recently.

Despite all the hue and cry about color, black still continues to be immensly popular and is the choice of some of the smartest dresses. This town suit is of deep black woolen with black Persian lamb down the front at the neckband, also bordering the jacket and the skirt hem. The sleeves are slim but are puffed high at the shoulders. The jacket is fitted to the form. A self-bow slips through the fur collar band and ties. The muff is of cloth with fur borders. Muffs are more important than ever this season, often forming an integral part of the costume.

Peanut Butter

To make peanut butter spread easily, add a little boiling water and then a speck of salt for better flavor. Mix until creamy with a fork. Add some chopped raisins to peanut butter and use as filling for Graham bread sandwiches for the children's lunches.

Fur hats—pillbox and Russian styles—are important this season.

Why Do People Laugh When Women Run?

By MME. QUI VIVE.

It isn't expected that fat folk and the aged can run—or want to. But why is it that many a woman, not yet turned 30, can't sprint a short distance to catch a bus without causing laughter? Surely at that time of life one isn't muscle-bound, weak in the joints or clumsy with the heels.

If a woman can't bring herself to stand beautifully, she can't expect to walk splendidly; as for running—let's draw the curtain. Almost any kind of an exhibition can be expected. She'll hop, lope or waddle. No wonder people laugh.

Poor posture means that muscles are weakened, lacking resiliency. Being out of practice, they do not respond to efforts. The musculature has more weak points than strong ones because the body is not held properly all the time.

Keep your spine straight and hold it high. That is the secret. The next rule: keep your tummy tucked inside of you, where it belongs. This habit will strengthen the fibers of the addomen, they will form a natural corset.

When you pull in your tummy you will naturally lift the chest, because there will be an upward push at the diaphragm which is good for your liver and whatever may ail it. With the chest up, the shoulders cannot fall forward. You then have the body in alignment. Take that pose and do a runaround all over the house. Don't wriggle your hips or assume a side-to-side movement.

Dress your feet comfortably. If you don't do that you can't expect to walk beautifully. Take the correct position and run standing still, kicking your heels up as high as you can.

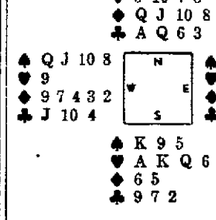
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

LEADING TO A TENACE

How often have you seen a player deliberately lead away from his guarded king up to dummy's ace-queen? Not very often. Usually that would be terrible bridge. But there are times when it represents real brilliancy.



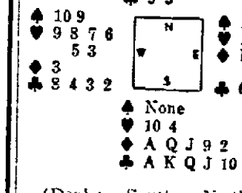
(Dealer South. Both sides vulnerable.)

North and South reached a contract of 4-Hearts on this deal. South opened with 1-Heart, North called 3-Hearts and South 4-Hearts.

When the spade Q was led, South figured that he had one spade winner, one spade ruff, five trumps, one club and two diamonds, but he reckoned without East, who found a way to set him.

East overtook the spade Q with the A and led the club 5. West's 10 forced the Q. Three rounds of trumps were then drawn and declarer went after diamonds. East won the first lead of that suit with the K and led the club 8, thus establishing his K while he had an entry in diamonds. The club A took the trick and when South led another diamond, East was able to win it and cash his club, which he never could have developed except for his daring leads.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer South. Neither side vulnerable.)

What is the correct defense against South's 5-Club contract?
